Aandahl Stresses 'Local Level' In REA Address

By JOHN SWANSON
Star Staff Member

Public power people should have a pretty good idea of where they stand with the Federal Government as a result of a speech Monday by Fred G. Aandahl, assistant secretary of the Interior.

Aandahl told members of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association meeting in Lincoln that the philosophy of the present power policy is to "assert our reliance on people at the local level, in meeting power requirements."

Although the assistant secretary did not use the words "private power" in his talk before the public power audience, he asserted that most growing power demands should be met at the "local level." He added that the government can "play a valuable part" in the development of large, multi-purpose dams for power generation.

"When we recognize that the government only supplies about 12 percent of U. S. power, we realize how big local responsibility is. I think it would be a mistake to have the government take over all power development. We do not want to absorb everything; it is the American people on the local level who constitute the backbone of our power programs. In meeting our power needs we do not look to an overall plan of government control in which operations would switch from hydro to steam plants."

Main Difference

"The main difference between the policy of this administration and that of the previous administration is that we assert our reliance on the local level for power production," Aandahl indicated that steam generation should be left to "local" undertakings.

On the important question of construction of transmission lines, the assistant secretary said when the department recognizes that it is the "backbone" of power exchange it will recommend stepping up construction of new lines.

REA delegates either felt their questions had been answered by Aandahl or they were too busy mulling over the talk when it closed. No questions came from

Demo Tax Leader Sees 'Bigger' Cuts

Ike Calls For Smaller Slash; Asks Senate To Hold Line

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower called Monday for the Senate to hold the line against excise tax reductions but the Senate's Democratic tax leader predicted the administration is in for a bigger rather than a smaller cut.

Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga), former chairman and ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee, told a reporter:

Foul Play Is Found In Death

'Pushed From Car,' Coroner's Jury Rules

CHADRON, Neb. (AP)—A six man coroner's jury Monday ruled that 14-year-old Jessie Redhawk of Pine Ridge, S. D., met death "feloniously while being ejected" from a car in which she was riding early Sunday.

Dawes County Attorney Ernest Johnson said he would file charges Tuesday against Mickey Shelley, 21, and Robert Walton, 22, both of Gordon, Neb., in whose car the girl was riding at the time of her death.

Johnson indicated he would decide Tuesday what charges would be filed.

The two, along with the girl's brother, Ward Redhawk, 28, also of Pine Ridge, testified at the inquest.

Miles Murphy of Stella, Mo., driver of a car which struck the girl after she had fallen to the road, was exonerated from any blame in connection with her death.

Penalty Clauses

The question of penalty clauses under which preference customers would have to pay for a part of the unused power which they order to meet maximum demands would be solved by the short supply of power, Aandahl said. He explained that there would be "no room" for the penalty clause because only about 45 percent of the power demands in the eastern division of the Missouri Basin would be met by existing supplies of firm power. Matters of surplus power over preference demands face a similar situation in the western division, he said.

He estimated that 115,000 kilowatts of new firm power would be available for sale to preference customers in that division to 1958, with "perhaps a small amount left over."

"What has been interpreted as a penalty provision is not a penalty provision at all. It will in no way affect the total amount of power available to preference customers."

He said that in both the east and west divisions of the basin all new power which is declared available will be contracted to preference customers or held available for them as they need it.

Aandahl announced a series of meetings with power customers will be held in South and North Dakota next month to discuss power policies and contracts. Explaining what he termed the "modified" government policy on power, Aandahl pointed to the need for economy in government expenditures brought about by tax reductions and high defense costs.

Earlier the REA men heard REA administrator Ancher Nelson and Col. Thomas J. Hayes, Omaha District Engineer of the Corps of Engineers.

Right-Of-Way Cost Okayed

An expenditure of $6,228 for the purchase of a right-of-way between Waverly and Greenwood for the city's new Ashland to Lincoln power transmission line has been approved by the City Council.

The rate of pay for the 15 parcels of land is $4 per rod plus $100 for air relief and blow-off funds for the right-of-way. The properties involved are under 15 different owners.

The area between Waverly and Greenwood will be the starting point for the pipe line contractor. One little snag in the procurement of the entire right-of-way involves property near Waverly owned by Mayor Clark Jeary.

Under terms of the city's charter, the city cannot enter into a contract with Jeary for purchase of the right-of-way.

One way around the difficulty would be for Jeary to deed the property to another party but the mayor does not approve of that course. The only other alternative, which Jeary and the city legal department have approved, is condemnation of the mayor's land.

driver's speed. With a five-mile-per-hour violation, he said, conviction is much easier.

In between those two areas, he said, is a twilight zone that could go one way or another, depending upon the circumstances.

Pace suggested that the city establish its speed limits and give warning tickets for violations up to four or five miles per hour. Such warnings, he said, are very effective and not widely enough used in Lincoln at this time.

It was noted by Ash, however, that the possibility of error with the new radar clocking device was less than one mile per hour.

It was also Thorne who advocated the use of more speed limit signs. There are many people who do not know the speed limits and the arterial streets who are entitled to the benefit of such signs, he said.

CHARLES J. WARNER

'War Horse' Warner Files Again At 79

The 79-year-old Republican "war horse" of Nebraska state government, Charles J. Warner of Waverly, Monday joined the youngsters and filed with the secretary of state for a fourth term as lieutenant governor.

Since two years after he was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1899, when he first started serving three terms in the lower house of the Legislature, the Waverly farmer, who is well known as a breeder of registered Hereford cattle, has closely followed and been interested in state government.

In 1905, he ceased active participation as a law-maker until 1919 when he was elected to the Senate. He then served nine continuous terms followed by one in the Unicameral. Once again he gave up the task of aiding in making laws but was elected lieutenant governor in 1948 and has served three terms.

Antelope Creek Dike Approved

Protection For Randolph Area

The preparation of plans and specifications for construction of a dike along the south side of D from the Rock Island tracks east to 30th has been approved by the City Council.

The estimated $2,000 structure is calculated to hold back small floods on Antelope Creek from entering the Randolph district between 27th and E and 30th and D.

"This dike," according to City Engineer D. L. Erickson, "will materially reduce the frequency of floods in the Randolph area."

Hold Only Small Flood

As explained by Erickson and Nate Beezley, assistant engineer, the dike would handle a flood of the size which occurred in 1940. That is a flood rated to occur about once every two years.

With floods the size of those which occurred on Antelope on May 8, 1950 and June 14, 1951, said Beezley, the dike would wash out and have no effect whatsoever.

The dike, he explained, would raise the water level at D about one foot. Property southeast of dike area should not be hurt by the water backing up, he said.

Won't Cause Harm

The 1950 flood, he explained, did not harm those properties and this dike would wash out before it raised the water level at D beyond the 1950 flood depth.

A total of $5,000 was included in the 1953-54 fiscal year budget for Antelope Creek flood control work. The possibility of expanding some of the structures over the creek, particularly railroad bridges, is also under study, according to Erickson.

Nixon Gets Republican Nod To Reply To Adlai

Red Hunter Denied Free Time By Networks

IKE APPROVES

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican Party skipped over Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) Monday to let Vice President Nixon answer a Democratic political blast and did so, high Republican sources indicated, with President Eisenhower's approval.

Nixon was given the nod to answer a broadcast by Adlai Stevenson that the Republican Party is "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

A high Republican official, who declined use of his name, indicated that the committee action was taken with the consent of President Eisenhower.

There was no formal comment on that point, however. Nixon will speak Saturday 9:30 to 10 p.m. CST, over both NBC and CBS.

McCarthy still wants time to do his own talking.

He said television and radio networks would give him free time too to answer Stevenson or they would "learn what the law is."

Interviewed in Miami, the Wisconsin senator declared he personally wants 30 minutes on the air to answer, among other things, Stevenson's charge that he is sowing "slander and dissension" across the land.

He Will Go FCC

If the free time is not forthcoming, McCarthy said, he will take the question up with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), which regulates radio and television stations.

GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall moved in ahead of McCarthy to get free radio and TV time equal to that given Stevenson, titular head of the Democrats, for a speech at Miami Beach Saturday night.

Later Hall announced Nixon would appear on a combined radio-TV broadcast Saturday to speak not only on the Republican Party leadership and the administration's program, but also to reply to Stevenson.

Rapped By Adlai

Stevenson, in an address to a Democratic rally in Florida, said a group of "political plunger" had persuaded President Eisenhower to adopt McCarthy's tactics for the GOP as a whole.

Stevenson, addressing a big Democratic harmony feast in Miami Beach, charged that the Republican Party has embarked on a deliberate campaign of "slander, dissension and deception" in an effort to remain in power.

He also lashed at McCarthy personally, asserting the Wisconsin Senator is trying to capture the Republican Party and lead it to "a malign and fatal totalitarianism."

Lack Of Speed Limit Signs Told; Driver Fined $4

A newcomer to Lincoln was fined $4 and costs Monday after pleading guilty to a charge of speeding and explaining to the court he saw no speed signs to guide him.

Judge John Jacobson told the man, a laborer, that due to the fact there was no malice or other mitigating circumstances in his case, the low fine would apply. The man charged said the lack of speed signs made it impossible for him to know the proper speed he should drive on the streets.

2 More Seeking Chadron Post; List Of Applicants Is Not Public

Two new applications were received by the State Normal Board Monday for the post of president of Chadron Teachers College, according to Secretary E. Albin Larson. The post was left vacant by the resignation of Dr. Wiley G. Brooks.

Larson said he refused to make public a list of applicants as requested by a Lincoln evening newspaper because he had been given no such authority by the board.

Pursuing the quest, the same newspaper contacted A. D. Majors of Omaha, president of the board, who apparently held a similar view.

Later, President Majors in conversation with The Star said, "I have no authority to release anything for the board. We haven't sifted the list and the number of applicants hasn't been pared." Applications are still being received, Majors explained.

(The Star repeatedly has indicated its support for this position.)

Larson confirmed that the number of applicants had not been cut down, but said that the board

McCarthy Insists On Speaking For Himself

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said Monday night television and radio networks would grant him free time to answer Adlai Stevenson or they would "learn what the law is."

McCarthy, arriving from Miami Beach, was told at the airport that the CBS and NBC Networks already had turned down his request for free time to answer Stevenson's Miami speech Saturday night.

He also was told that the Republican National Committee had been given free time and that Vice President Nixon would answer the Democratic presidential nominee.

"I am delegating to no one the authority to defend me," McCarthy said. "In addition, I intend to do everything I can to make the television companies live up to their obligations."

McCarthy said he would continue to demand time for himself "and I will not countenance anything else."

"The FCC rules provide that I must be given time to answer these charges."

McCarthy said Stevenson's speech was "an intemperate attack on the Republican Party and a lengthy, vicious attack on me personally."

Earlier, former President Truman said he thought it was "proper" for the Republican leadership to choose a speaker to reply to Stevenson, since the latter spoke under auspices of the Democratic National Committee.

McCarthy, who arrived with his wife after a fishing trip in Florida, was told that Army Secretary Robert Stevens had said in Washington earlier Monday that the recent row between Stevens and McCarthy had hurt Army morale.

"I don't care what Secretary Stevens said about the Army," McCarthy replied. "I will continue to dig out Communists wherever and whenever I find them."

The CBS said in a statement Monday night that in giving time to the Republican Party and not to McCarthy it had fulfilled "both the spirit and the letter of the law and the FCC requirements."

The statement added that since the Democratic National Committee was given time for Stevenson's speech "it is logical and equitable, therefore, to provide equal time for reply to the Republican National Committee, rather than to any individual."

Engineers 'Have Doubts' On Lincoln Area Dams

.. Conflicts With Salt-Wahoo Plan Cited

WASHINGTON (AP)—Because of possibly changed circumstances Army engineers now have doubts as to the economic feasibility of building large flood control reservoirs at Lincoln, Neb.

Brig. Gen. W. E. Potter, chief of the engineers' Missouri River Division, told a House Appropriations Subcommittee the reservoirs may not be practicable if the Agriculture Department's Salt-Wahoo Basin Pilot Plant Watershed program is completed as now planned.

In testimony made public Monday, Potter said the area of the pilot plant in the Salt-Wahoo Basin is the largest of more than four dozen similar projects for which money was appropriated by Congress last year.

"If this program is completed as now planned, it may not be economically feasible to provide the larger reservoirs which the corps considers are necessary to adequately protect Lincoln and the lower valley from major floods," Potter said.

He added that the engineers and the Agriculture Department haven't been able to get together on a joint plan for flood control in the Salt-Wahoo area.

The Agriculture Department's plan, already submitted to Congress consists of one part relating to land-treatment measures and another to waterway-stabilization measures including 165 small reservoirs primarily for flood control.

The engineers' plan, not yet approved by the chief of engineers, provides for 17 small reservoirs integrated with channel and levee improvements downstream. The engineers say their proposal would provide a relatively high degree of protection to Lincoln, Ashland, and a number of smaller communities, agriculture lands and transportation. Federal cost is estimated at $12,410,500.

There is no conflict between agriculture and the engineers on agriculture's land-treatment plan for the basin. This would cost $13,906,200.

But some of agriculture's proposed 165 reservoirs conflict with the engineers' plan, Potter said. The waterways-stabilization program of agriculture includes such measures as channel improvement, drop structures and the 165 reservoirs. It would cost $6,207,000.

Potter said he thought discussion between the engineers and agriculture officials on the plans for the pilot-plant will be of value.

No Separate Plans—Lieber

In Lincoln Monday night, State Sen. Otto H. Lieber, co-chairman of the Salt-Wahoo Watershed Association said:

"There are not two separate plans—one for the Agriculture Department and one for the Corps of Engineers—but a coordinated plan which will provide for conservation on land flood control by the Corps."

"I am not at all perturbed by Potter's testimony."

"Complete harmony between both groups was the result of a meeting Jan. 5, 1953 at which time the Agriculture Department withdrew from areas where the Corps of Engineers felt dams were essential."

"With the exception of a few terms, which could have been ironed out, both groups were together. The program was favored by the President, the administration and Potter's successor in this area, Col. Miller, and approval was given by the Agriculture Department and the Corps."

"I am confident that the merits of the co-ordinated plan will prevail."

Some City Speed Limits To Be Raised To 35 M.P.H.

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

The City Council has informally voted in favor of 35-mile-per-hour speed zones on certain arterial streets.

Some Council sentiment has also been expressed in favor of more speed limit signs, despite the adverse recommendation for such action from Capt. Willis Manchester of the police traffic division.

In voting for the preparation of an ordinance to put in the 35-mile-per-hour speed limits, the Council also held a debate on the pro and con of how far a motorist should be allowed to go beyond the legal speed limit before receiving a ticket. That flexibility in the law has been referred to as tolerance.

Councilman Pat Ash, who received some support from Councilman Joseph E. Fenton, stated that speed limits should be fixed and any violation penalized.

"Arguments in behalf of tolerance," said Ash, "are about as thin as a dime. I think we are approaching the thing from the wrong way."

"If we had a speed limit of 35 and made it stick—gave tickets at 36—it would be much safer than a limit of 30 with a five, seven, eight or some other unknown tolerance."

"I personally," commented Councilman Hugh Thorne, "would drive slower and safer at 35 miles per hour with no tolerance than I would with a 30 miles per hour limit and a five miles per hour tolerance."

Explaining the police department's use of tolerance, Deputy City Attorney Jack Pace noted that a court conviction on a charged one-mile-per-hour violation of the limits would be almost impossible because of the possibility of human and mechanical error in clocking driver's speed. With a five-mile-per-hour violation, he said, conviction is much easier.

In between those two areas, he said, is a twilight zone that could go one way or another, depending upon the circumstances.

Pace suggested that the city establish its speed limits and give warning tickets for violations up to four or five miles per hour. Such warnings, he said, are very effective and not widely enough used in Lincoln at this time.

torist that U-turns are prohibited on arterials, etc."

Manchester suggested that, if there is further need of informing the public, any available funds be put in the police department's educational program rather than signs. The story could be told, he suggested, through various forms of mass communication and the department's own contact with civic groups and individuals.

Manchester did concede, however, that future study might possibly indicate the need for more signs on certain streets and well traveled non-arterials. To that end, he submitted a list of areas where more signs could be placed should the Council decide to do so.

It was reported by Manchester that there are now a total of 75 speed limits signs in the city.

Aandahl Stresses 'Local Level' In REA Address

By JOHN SWANSON
Star Staff Member

Public power people should have a pretty good idea of where they stand with the Federal Government as a result of a speech Monday by Fred G. Aandahl, assistant secretary of the Interior. Aandahl told members of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association meeting in Lincoln that the philosophy of the present power policy is to "assert our reliance on people at the local level in meeting power requirements."

Although the assistant secretary did not use the words "private power" in his talk before the public power audience, he asserted that most growing power demands should be met at the "local level." He added that the government can "play a valuable part" in the development of large, multi-purpose dams for power generation.

"When we recognize that the government only supplies about 12 per cent of U. S. power, we realize how big local responsibility is. I think it would be a mistake to have the government take over all power development. We do not want to absorb everything; it is the American people on the local level who constitute the backbone of our power programs. In meeting our power needs we do not look to an overall plan of government control in which operations would switch from hydro to steam plants."

the floor when they were asked for after the speech. Just how well the delegates were reassured by Aandahl will be indicated Tuesday when the annual bill of resolutions is voted upon.

Penalty Clauses

The question of penalty clauses under which preference customers would have to pay for a part of the unused power which they order to meet maximum demands would be solved by the short supply of power, Aandahl said. He explained that there would be "no room" for the penalty clause because only about 45 per cent of the power demands in the eastern division of the Missouri Basin would be met by existing supplies of firm power. Matters of surplus power over preference demands face a similar situation in the western division, he said. He estimated that 115,000 kilowatts of new firm power would be available for sale to preference customers in that division to 1958, with "perhaps a small amount left over."

"What has been interpreted as a penalty provision is not a penalty provision at all. It will in no way affect the total amount of power available to preference customers."

He said that in both the east and west divisions of the basin all new power which is declared available will be contracted to preference customers or held available for them as they need it.

Aandahl announced a series of meetings with power customers will be held in South and North Dakota next month to discuss power policies and contracts. Explaining what he termed the "modified" government policy on power, Aandahl pointed to the need for economy in government expenditures brought about by tax reductions and high defense costs.

Earlier the REA men heard REA administrator Anchor Nelson and Col. Thomas J. Hayes, Omaha District Engineer of the Corps of Engineers.

Main Difference

"The main difference between the policy of this administration and that of the previous administration is that we assert our reliance on the local level for power production," Aandahl indicated that steam generation should be left to "local" undertakings.

On the important question of construction of transmission lines, the assistant secretary said when the department recognizes that it is the "backbone" of power exchange it will recommend stepping up construction of new lines.

REA delegates either felt their questions had been answered by Aandahl or they were too busy mulling over the talk when it closed. No questions came from

—President To Fight— Demo Tax Leader Sees 'Bigger' Cuts

Asks Senate To Hold Line

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower called Monday for the Senate to hold the line against excise tax reductions but the Senate's Democratic tax leader predicted the administration is in for a bigger rather than a smaller cut.

Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), former chairman and ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee, told a reporter:

"I think the chances are that the House excise tax cut will be increased a little rather than decreased. There are some things like the key automobile and truck industries that are very vitally involved."

Foul Play Is Found In Death

'Pushed From Car,' Coroner's Jury Rules

CHADRON, Neb. (P)—A six man coroner's jury Monday ruled that 14-year-old Jessie Redhawk of Pine Ridge, S. D., met death "feloniously while being ejected" from a car in which she was riding early Sunday.

Dawes County Attorney Ernest Johnson said he would file charges Tuesday against Mickey Shelley, 21, and Robert Walton, 22, both of Chadron, Neb., in whose car the girl was riding at the time of her death.

Johnson indicated he would decide Tuesday what charges would be filed.

The two, along with the girl's brother, Ward Redhawk, 28, also of Pine Ridge, testified at the inquest.

Miles Murphy of Stella, Mo., driver of a car which struck the girl after she had fallen to the road, was exonerated from any blame in connection with her death.

Same Story

The girl's brother and the two Gordon men told essentially the same story:

The two had picked up Redhawk and his sister as the two hitchhiked home from Chadron. After suggesting that Redhawk get in the front seat while one of the other two got in the back with his sister, they stopped the car.

Redhawk and the girl got out of the car and started to walk. After driving up and down the road past the two, Walton and Shelley stopped the car again and got out. Shelley took Redhawk by the arm and put him in the front seat and Walton picked up the girl and put her kicking and screaming, into the back seat.

Both Shelley and Redhawk testified they did not see whether the girl jumped or was pushed from the moving car when the door came open.

Walton said he had subdued the girl and was holding her hands, when she asked him to take something, apparently a weed, from her hair. As he did, he said, she broke away and jumped.

'War Horse' Warner Files Again At 79

The 79-year-old Republican "war horse" of Nebraska state government, Charles J. Warner of Waverly, Monday joined the youngsters and filed with the secretary of state for a fourth term as lieutenant governor.

Since two years after he was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1899, when he first started serving three terms in the lower house of the Legislature, the Waverly farmer, who is well known as a breeder of registered Hereford cattle, has closely followed and been interested in state government.

In 1905, he ceased active participation as a law-maker until 1919 when he was elected to the Senate. He then served nine continuous terms followed by one in the Unicameral. Once again he gave up the task of aiding in making laws but was elected lieutenant governor in 1948 and has served three terms.

Antelope Creek Dike Approved

Protection For Randolph Area

The preparation of plans and specifications for construction of a dike along the south side of D from the Rock Island tracks east to 30th has been approved by the City Council.

The estimated $2,000 structure is calculated to hold back small floods on Antelope Creek from entering the Randolph district between 27th and E and 30th and D. "This dike," according to City Engineer D. L. Erickson, "will materially reduce the frequency of floods in the Randolph area."

Hold Only Small Flood

As explained by Erickson and Nate Beezley, assistant engineer, the dike would handle a flood of the size which occurred in 1940. That is a flood rated to occur about once every two years.

With floods the size of those which occurred on Antelope on May 8, 1950 and June 14, 1951, said Beezley, the dike would wash out and have no effect whatsoever.

The dike, he explained, would raise the water level at D about one foot. Property southeast of dike area should not be hurt by the water backing up, he said.

Won't Cause Harm

The 1950 flood, he explained, did not harm those properties and this dike would wash out before it raised the water level at D beyond the 1950 flood depth.

A total of $5,000 was included in the 1953-54 fiscal year budget for Antelope Creek flood control work. The possibility of expanding some of the structures over the creek, particularly railroad bridges, is also under study, according to Erickson.

Nixon Gets Republican Nod To Reply To Adlai

Red Hunter Denied

IKE APPROVES

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican Party skipped over Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) Monday to let Vice President Nixon answer a Democratic political blast and did so, high Republican sources indicated, with President Eisenhower's approval.

Nixon was given the nod to answer a broadcast by Adlai Stevenson that the Republican Party is "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

A high Republican official, who declined use of his name, indicated that the committee action was taken with the consent of President Eisenhower.

There was no formal comment at that point, however, Nixon will speak Saturday 9:30 to 10 p.m. CST, over both NBC and CBS.

McCarthy still wants time to do his own talking.

He said television and radio networks would give him free time too to answer Stevenson or they would "learn what the law is."

Interviewed in Miami, the Wisconsin senator declared he personally wants 30 minutes on the air to answer, among other things, Stevenson's charge that he is sowing "slander and dissension" across the land.

He Will Go FCC

If the free time is not forthcoming, McCarthy said, he will take the question up with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), which regulates radio and television stations.

GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall moved in ahead of McCarthy to get free radio and TV time equal to that given Stevenson, titular head of the Democrats, for a speech at Miami Beach Saturday night.

Later Hall announced Nixon would appear on a combined radio-TV broadcast Saturday night, but not only on the Republican Party leadership and the administration's program, but also to reply to Stevenson.

Rapped By Adlai

Stevenson, in an address to a Democratic rally in Florida, said a group of "political plungers" had persuaded President Eisenhower to adopt McCarthy's tactics for the GOP as a whole.

Stevenson, addressing a big Democratic harmony feast in Miami Beach, charged that the Republican Party has embarked on a "deliberate campaign of 'slander, dissension and deception' in an effort to remain in power."

He also lashed at McCarthy personally, asserting the Wisconsin Senator is trying to capture the Republican Party and lead it to "a malign and fatal totalitarianism."

Lack Of Speed Limit Signs Told;
Driver Fined $4

A newcomer to Lincoln was fined $4 and costs Monday after pleading guilty to a charge of speeding and explaining to the court he saw no speed signs to guide him.

Judge John Jacobson told the man, a laborer, that due to the fact there was no malice or other mitigating circumstances in his case, the low fine would apply. The man charged said the lack of speed signs made it impossible for him to know the proper speed he should drive on the streets.

'Dulles Doctrine' Backed

U.S. Envoy Asks Anti-Red Action

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Moscow seeks to bring parts of the Western Hemisphere into the Soviet orbit, Secretary of State Dulles said Monday.

The secretary urged the American republics to take united action to thwart any such designs. He addressed the 10th Inter-American Conference in support of a U.S. anti-Communist resolution and soon afterwards cancelled speaking engagements in the United States. The explanation given was that he wanted to remain here and direct personally the U.S. campaign for the resolution.

Dulles began by reading a stern lecture to Guatemala on the meaning of international Communism. Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello of that Red-tinged central American republic had said he didn't know. When Dulles finished, the Guatemalan said he still didn't know.

'Far-Flung'

International Communism President Eisenhower's top diplomat explained, "is that far-flung clandestine political organization which is operated by the leaders of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. Since 1933 it has brought 15 once independent nations into a state of abject servitude. It has a hard core of agents in practically every country of the world. The total constitutes not a theory, not a doctrine, but an aggressive, tough political force backed by great resources and serving the most ruthless empire of modern times."

He called on the Americas to spring into united actions if one of them fell victim.

Brazil, the Dominican Republic, Paraguay, Honduras and Nicaragua immediately threw their support to this new "Dulles doctrine." Mexico submitted an amendment expanding such joint action to all forms of totalitarianism.

Speech Called Off

With a lengthy debate apparently in sight, Dulles called off a speaking engagement at the Philadelphia Bulletin Forum Wednesday.

Toriello sat silent while delegates gave Dulles a 26-second burst of applause for his definition and then said he was still unsatisfied.

He asked whether the label could be pinned on normal trade and diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union, "the struggle against imperialism and economic privilege," "the raising of coffee prices in the United States," or the "struggle for peace."

U.S. officials have charged in the past that Reds occupy important posts in Guatemala and wield considerable influence with its left-wing government.

Reported Uneasy

Dulles and his aids made no secret of their uneasiness over the spread of Communist influence in the Central American Republic. Monday it was disclosed that this feeling is shared by the British government.

Dispatches from London quoted authoritative informants as saying that the royal governor of British Honduras, a Central American colony, had asked Prime Minister Churchill's government to investigate links between the People's United Party in the colony and Reds in neighboring Guatemala.

Dulles, in delivery, deleted the direct references to Guatemala which appeared in his prepared text. He pointedly said, however, that he found it "somewhat disturbing if the foreign affairs of one of our American republics are conducted by one so innocent he has to ask" what international Communism is.

Airmen Plant Trees At Base

Five to six hundred small fir trees donated by the State Reformatory for Men here are being planted at Lincoln Air Force Base by men of the newly-arrived 98th Air Refueling Squadron.

Most of the trees, Col. Edwin Wursten, base commander, said, will be planted along the main entrance at the south end of the base. Any additional trees left over will be planted around the airmen's dormitories, he said. "We were very fortunate in having the trees given to us now," Col. Wursten said, "because the men of the 98th ARS have time to plant them before they start training."

George Morris, superintendent of the Reformatory, said that "the trees were planted as seedlings a year ago and are getting too big to be used in transplanting any longer." He said that most of the trees had been used in shelterbelts.

Morris added that the area originally planted in the seedlings is being cleared so the land may be used for other purposes.

News Around The Globe

Defenses Tighten

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The French tightened their defenses today from Hanoi to the key supply port of Haiphong. The entire area was alerted as rumors spread that the Red-led Vietnamese are readying a big push to catch the eye of the big powers before they meet in Geneva.

The French declared a state of emergency in Haiphong, 64 miles east of Hanoi and rushed extra guards to a U. S.-served airfield crippled Sunday by a daring Red commando raid. It was the third such attack within a month.

Patrols were bolstered at all other air strips in the vicinity as word went out that Ho Chi Minh's forces plan to attack every area where American personnel work.

Vietnam radio has accused the United States of intervening in the Indo-China War.

U.S. Roundup Swift

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 110 Puerto Ricans, including the wife of a would-be assassin of former President Harry S. Truman, were rounded up in New York and Chicago Monday in a swift probe into the shooting of five congressmen in Washington last week.

Mrs. Rosa Collazo, secretary of the local branch of the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party, was subpoenaed before one of the three grand juries probing party membership here. Her husband, Oscar, is serving a life sentence for an attempt to assassinate Truman on Nov. 1, 1950.

Help To Reds Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist radio has reported that Red China and Russia have secretly agreed to ship enough arms to equip eight more Vietnamese divisions in Indo-China.

The broadcast from Taipei, picked up by American government monitors, said this new supply deal was arranged in Peking by diplomats from Communist China, Vietnam and Russia Feb. 19. Informed government officials said they had heard the report but they indicated they were skeptical of its accuracy.

Close To Middle

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—Finland stuck close to the middle way in national parliamentary elections.

With little over one per cent of the votes still unreported the Social Democrats (Socialists), largest party in the previous Parliament, won 54 seats, a gain of one seat. The Communists won a larger share of the popular vote but appeared unlikely to increase their seats in Parliament.

Banning Of Union Shop Axed

House Committee Acts; T-H Changes Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Labor Committee voted down Monday a move aimed at banning union shops in union-management contracts. The Senate committee, meanwhile, put off for two days consideration of amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Chances of early passage of T-H amendments proposed by President Eisenhower appeared slim. There was a likelihood of further hearings dealing with federal and state regulation of labor disputes.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) of the Senate committee said he expects Eisenhower to make his federal-vs.-state recommendations this week and that if they call for hearings "then we'll have hearings."

Mid-April

That would delay committee action on the T-H amendments until mid-April at the earliest.

The House committee voted down the anti-union shop proposal 18-6. Chairman McConnell (R-Pa.) reported after a closed-door session.

He said the proposal, offered by Rep. Wint Smith (R-Kan.) would have rendered illegal all contracts providing for union shops and maintenance of membership.

Under a union shop, now permitted by the Taft-Hartley law, workers covered by a union-management contract are required to join the union or quit their jobs.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Labor Mitchell went before a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee to outline his department's 340 million dollar budget requests for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Mitchell called on Congress to increase the department budget by about 40 million dollars, mostly to provide for unemployment benefits.

The secretary said the administration is operating on the assumption that "there will be some increase in unemployment" in the next fiscal year although there will "continue to be a high level economy."

Airman At Offutt Killed In Crash

SHELBY, Ia. (AP)—Leslie E. Goodie, 23, Anderson, Ala., an airman stationed at Offutt Air Force Base near Omaha, was killed in a one car accident on a dirt road 3 1/2 miles north of Shelby.

Sheriff Orrell Gearhart said the car driven by Richard Bohac, 20, Rogers, Neb., went out of control at the bottom of a hill on a sharp turn.

Goodie was thrown from the car which then ran over him. As the car rolled over a second time, Bohac was thrown out, but his foot caught in the car. The auto burst into flames, but Bohac was rescued unharmed by Robert Hobus, who lives south-east of Shelby.

The two men had been guests as Hobus, who was driving ahead and noticed the headlights of the careening car. They were en route to Avoca when the accident occurred.

Rev. Reents Is Chaplain Of 34th Infantry Division

Lincoln Star Special
ADAMS, Neb.—The Rev. John H. Reents, pastor of the American Lutheran Church at Adams and Tilley has been appointed chaplain of the 34th Infantry Division of the Iowa-Nebraska National Guard.

Rev. Reents, who holds the rank of major, was formerly assistant chaplain of the 34th Division since World War II.

He served overseas with the 134th Infantry Division and is a native of Pickrell, Neb.

Testimony At Inquiries Not Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP)—Testimony by a witness before a congressional committee may not be used against him in any criminal prosecution in any court, the Supreme Court ruled Monday.

It was the first time the court ever said specifically such testimony may not be used in State Courts.

The unanimous decision struck down the State Court conviction of William Adams of Baltimore on charges of conspiring to violate Maryland's anti-lottery laws. Adams had been sentenced to seven years in prison and fined $2,000.

Justice Black, who wrote the court's main opinion said Adams admitted when questioned by the Senate Crime Investigating Committee in July, 1951, having run a gambling business in Maryland. He said this confession was used to convict Adams.

Black pointed out a section of the Federal Criminal Code (3486) provides no testimony given by a witness in congressional inquiries shall be used as evidence in any criminal proceeding against him in court.

Could Be No Plaintiff

W. Giles Barker, a Maryland assistant attorney general, argued this law applies only to Federal courts. He said Congress didn't have power to prescribe rules of evidence for state courts.

Black ruled, however: "The act forbids use of such evidence in any criminal proceeding in any court." Language could be no plaintiff.

Monday's decision does not affect the "Fifth Amendment" right of a witness to refuse to give testimony on ground it might tend to incriminate him.

It adds up to this: A witness cannot be compelled to give incriminating testimony, and the actual testimony he gives without claiming the privilege against self-incrimination cannot be used against him. Adams did not claim the privilege.

Since it was the first court session in four weeks, there had been widespread speculation beforehand that it would rule on the big case before it—whether segregation of white and Negro pupils in public schools is constitutional. However, the court made no mention of the segregation case.

Request Considered

The City Council has taken under consideration the petition of the Havelock Business Men's Club and others asking for the removal of the center parkways in 61st between Ballard and Platte.

U.S.-Japan Defensive Pact Inked

'Nearer Withdrawal,' Allison Says At Signing

TOKYO, Tuesday (AP)—Japan and the United States, bitter enemies only nine years ago, took a big step yesterday toward becoming armed allies against the threat of communist aggression.

U. S. Ambassador John Allison, the Nebraskan, and Japanese Foreign Minister Katsuoka signed the long pending U.S.-Japan mutual defense pact.

Allison said the pact "takes us one step nearer the time the United States can withdraw its forces from Japan."

It still must be ratified by Japan's Diet before going into effect but Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida was confident this could be accomplished before the month's end despite Socialist and minor leftist opposition.

Millions Involved

Once ratified the pact will: Put an estimated 100 to 130 million dollars into Japan's economy for military purposes the first year and an untold amount in succeeding years.

Furnish Japan destroyers, jet planes, tanks and jeeps and help boost the defense force from 120,000 to 160,000 men in a year—although still far short of the 300,000-man force favored by the United States.

Provide a 700-man U. S. military advisory group to serve with the Japanese defense force.

The defense pact does not specify details of the military aid the United States will supply.

Aggressive Step

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio said Monday night the new American-Japanese mutual defense pact "will embolden the preparations of the ruling clique of Japan for aggressive action in the Far East jointly with the U. S. A."

Gen. Vandenberg Is 'Seriously Ill'

WASHINGTON (INS)—A spokesman for the Walter Reed Army Hospital said Monday night that Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg "is very seriously ill."

The spokesman declined further comment on the condition of the former Air Force chief of staff.

The general, a nephew of the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), retired from active duty last June 30 after five years in the top Air Force post. He is 55 years old.

Vandenberg underwent major abdominal surgery while still on active duty. He returned to Walter Reed some months ago for further treatment.

Nebraska City To Sell Stamp

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster General Summerfield announced Monday the first stamps commemorating the 100th anniversary of the establishment of Nebraska Territory will go on sale May 7 in Nebraska City.

Nebraska territory was established in 1854.

Bellevue Objects

PAPILLION, Neb. (AP)—Informed Monday that the Post Office Department had decided to open the sale of a special Nebraska Centennial stamp at Nebraska City. W. R. Patrick, Papillion attorney and trustee of the Sarpy County Historical Society said:

"We do not like it. The facts show that the first postoffice in Nebraska territory was located at Bellevue. That of itself should give Bellevue priority."

"We are contacting our senators and representatives in Washington to have the facts put up to the Postoffice Department so that Bellevue can be given the priority it deserves."

W. A. Schallercross, president of the Sarpy County Historical Society, said he was "very disappointed at the action."

"I don't know if we can do anything or not," he said.

Ash Questions Bids, Blocks City Purchase

The purchase of a truck chassis and three cars has been held up by the City Council due to looseness in specifications and lack of clarity among bids submitted.

The block on the purchases was thrown by Councilman Pat Ash who questioned both the city's specifications and the bids submitted.

"The specifications," said Ash, "are more detailed as to what kind of tires and upholstery are wanted than to the horsepower or number of cylinders we want."

Impossible Decision

From the bids submitted on the equipment, said Ash, there is no way of telling what all dealers are allowing the city on its trade-ins and what the list price of the cars and trucks are. It is impossible, he said, to arrive at a decision under such circumstances.

Also, said Ash, the Council should know when trade-ins are being made whether the equipment to be turned in could be used by another department of the city. It might be more economical, he said, to pass a used car in the police department where it is not in condition for emergency use to another department where the car would perform routine service.

The Council failed to approve the recommended bid of $1,593 or the second low bid of $1,599 for a truck chassis. The trade-in value of an older chassis was not specified in all bids.

Low Bids Declined

Similarly, the Council turned down the low bids of $4,200 and $3,644 for the purchase of three cars for the police department. Again, not all bids specified the trade-in allowance and list price of their cars.

The House committee voted down the union shop proposal 18-6. Chairman McConnell (R-Pa.) reported after a closed-door session.

He said the proposal, offered by Rep. Wint Smith (R-Kan.) would have rendered illegal all contracts providing for union shops and maintenance of membership.

Under a union shop, now permitted by the Taft-Hartley law, workers covered by a union-management contract are required to join the union or quit their jobs.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Labor Mitchell went before a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee to outline his department's $40 million dollar budget requests for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Mitchell called on Congress to increase the department budget by about 40 million dollars, mostly to provide for unemployment benefits.

The secretary said the administration is operating on the assumption that "there will be some increase in unemployment" in the next fiscal year although there will "continue to be a high level economy."

Airman At Offutt Killed In Crash

SHELBY, Ia. (AP)—Leslie E. Goodie, 23, Anderson, Ala., an airman stationed at Offutt Air Force Base near Omaha, was killed in a one car accident on a dirt road 3 1/2 miles north of Shelby.

Sheriff Orrell Gearhart said the car driven by Richard Bohac, 20, Rogers, Neb., went out of control at the bottom of a hill on a sharp turn.

Goodie was thrown from the car which then ran over him. As the car rolled over a second time, Bohac was thrown out, but his foot caught in the car. The auto burst into flames, but Bohac was rescued unharmed by Robert Hobus, who lives south-east of Shelby.

The two men had been guests as Hobus, who was driving ahead and noticed the headlights of the car, when they were en route to Avoca when the accident occurred.

Rev. Reents, who holds the rank of major, was formerly assistant chaplain of the 34th Division since World War II. He served overseas with the 134th Infantry Division and is a native of Pickrell, Neb.

Testimony At Inquiries Not Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP)—Testimony by a witness before a congressional committee may not be used against him in any criminal prosecution in any court, the Supreme Court ruled Monday.

It was the first time the court ever said specifically such testimony may not be used in State Courts.

The unanimous decision struck down the State Court conviction of William Adams of Baltimore on charges of conspiring to violate Maryland's anti-loyalty laws. Adams had been sentenced to seven years in prison and fined $2,000.

Justice Black, who wrote the court's main opinion said Adams admitted when questioned by the Senate Crime Investigating Committee in July, 1951, having run a gambling business in Maryland. He said this confession was used to convict Adams.

Black pointed out a section of the Federal Criminal Code (3486) provides no testimony given by a witness in congressional inquiries shall be used as evidence in any criminal proceeding against him in court.

Could Be No Plaintiff

W. Giles Parker, a Maryland assistant attorney general, argued this law applies only to Federal courts. He said Congress didn't have power to prescribe rules of evidence for state courts.

Black ruled, however: "The act forbids use of such evidence in any criminal proceeding in any court." Language could be no plaintiff."

Monday's decision does not affect the "Fifth Amendment" right of a witness to refuse to give testimony on ground it might tend to incriminate him.

It adds up to this: A witness cannot be compelled to give incriminating testimony, and the actual testimony he gives without claiming the privilege against self-incrimination cannot be used against him. Adams did not claim the privilege.

Since it was the first court session in four weeks, there had been widespread speculation beforehand that it would rule on the big case before it—whether segregation of white and Negro pupils in public schools is constitutional. However, the court made no mention of the segregation case.

Request Considered

The City Council has taken under consideration the petition of the Havelock Business Men's Club and others asking for the removal of the center parkways in 61st between Ballard and Platte.

U.S.-Japan Defensive Pact Inked

'Nearer Withdrawal,' Allison Says At Signing

TOKYO, Tuesday (AP)—Japan and the United States, bitter enemies only nine years ago, took a big step yesterday toward becoming armed allies against the threat of communist aggression.

U. S. Ambassador John Allison, the Nebraska senator, and Japanese Foreign Minister Katsuo Okazaki signed the long pending U.S.-Japan mutual defense pact. Allison said the pact "takes us one step nearer the time the United States can withdraw its forces from Japan."

It still must be ratified by Japan's Diet before going into effect but Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida was confident this could be accomplished before the month's end despite Socialist and minor leftist opposition.

Millions Involved

Once ratified the pact will: Put an estimated 100 to 130 million dollars into Japan's economy for military purposes the first year and an untold amount in succeeding years.

Furnish Japan destroyers, jet planes, tanks and jeeps and help boost the defense force from 120,000 to 160,000 men in a year —although still far short of the 300,000-man force favored by the United States.

Provide a 700-man U. S. military advisory group to serve with the Japanese defense force. The defense pact does not specify details of the military aid the United States will supply.

Aggressive Step

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio said Monday night the new American-Japanese mutual defense pact "will embolden the preparations of the ruling clique of Japan for aggressive action in the Far East jointly with the U. S. A."

Gen. Vandenberg Is 'Seriously Ill'

WASHINGTON (INS)—A spokesman for the Walter Reed Army Hospital said Monday night that Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg "is very seriously ill."

The spokesman declined further comment on the condition of the former Air Force chief of staff.

The general, a nephew of the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), retired from active duty last June 30 after five years in the top Air Force post. He is 55 years old.

Vandenberg underwent major abdominal surgery while still on active duty. He returned to Walter Reed some months ago for further treatment.

Nebraska City To Sell Stamp

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster General Summerfield announced Monday the first stamps commemorating the 100th anniversary of the establishment of Nebraska Territory will go on sale May 7 in Nebraska City.

Nebraska territory was established in 1854.

Bellevue Objects

PAPILLON, Neb. (AP)—Informed Monday that the Post Office Department had decided to open the sale of a special Nebraska Centennial stamp at Nebraska City, W. R. Patrick, Papillon attorney and trustee of the Sarpy County Historical Society said:

"We do not like it. The facts show that the first postoffice in Nebraska territory was located at Bellevue. That of itself should give Bellevue priority."

"We are contacting our senators and representatives in Washington to have the facts put up to the Postoffice Department so that Bellevue can be given the priority it deserves."

W. A. Schallcross, president of the Sarpy County Historical Society, said he was "very disappointed at the action."

"I don't know if we can do anything or not," he said.

Ash Questions Bids, Blocks City Purchase

The purchase of a truck chassis and three cars has been held up by the City Council due to loose specifications and lack of clarity among bids submitted.

The block on the purchases was thrown by Councilman Pat Ash who questioned both the city's specifications and the bids submitted.

"The specifications," said Ash, "are more detailed as to what kind of tires and upholstery are wanted than to the horsepower or number of cylinders we want."

Impossible Decision

From the bids submitted on the equipment, said Ash, there is no way of telling what all dealers are allowing the city on its trade-ins and what the list price of the cars and trucks are. It is impossible, he said, to arrive at a decision under such circumstances.

Also, said Ash, the Council should know when trade-ins are being made whether the equipment to be turned in could be used by another department of the city. It might be more economical, he said, to pass a used car in the police department where it is not in condition for emergency use to another department where the car would perform routine service.

The Council failed to approve the recommended bid of $1,593 or the second low bid of $1,593 for a truck chassis. The trade-in value of an older chassis was not specified in all bids.

Low Bids Declined

Similarly, the Council turned down the low bids of $4,200 and $3,644 for the purchase of three cars for the police department. Again, not all bids specified the trade-in allowance and list price of their cars.

News Around The Globe

Defenses Tighten

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The French tightened their defenses today from Hanoi to the key supply port of Haiphong. The entire area was alerted as rumors spread that the Red-led Vietminh are readying a big push to catch the eye of the big powers before they meet in Geneva.

The French declared a state of emergency in Haiphong, 64 miles east of Hanoi and rushed extra guards to a U. S.-serviced airfield crippled Sunday by a daring Red commando raid. It was the third such attack within a month.

Patrols were bolstered at all other air strips in the vicinity as word went out that Ho Chi Minh's forces plan to attack every area where American personnel work. Vietnam radio has accused the United States of intervening in the Indo-China War.

U.S. Roundup Swift

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 110 Puerto Ricans, including the wife of a would-be assassin of former President Harry S. Truman, were rounded up in New York and Chicago Monday in a swift probe into the shooting of five congressmen in Washington last week.

Mrs. Rosa Collazo, secretary of the local branch of the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party, was subpoenaed before one of the three grand juries probing party membership here. Her husband, Oscar, is serving a life sentence for an attempt to assassinate Truman on Nov. 1, 1950.

Help To Reds Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist radio has reported that Red China and Russia have secretly agreed to ship enough arms to equip eight more Vietnamese divisions in Indo-China.

The broadcast from Taipei, picked up by American government monitors, said this new supply deal was arranged in Peiping by diplomats from Communist China, Vietnam and Russia Feb. 19. Informed government officials said they had heard the report but they indicated they were skeptical of its accuracy.

Close To Middle

HELSINKI, Finland (Tuesday)

(AP)—Finland stuck close to the middle way in national parliamentary elections.

With little over one per cent of the votes still unreported the Social Democrats (Socialists), largest party in the previous Parliament, won 54 seats, a gain of one seat. The Communists won a larger share of the popular vote but appeared unlikely to increase their seats in Parliament.

Immunity Favored

ATLANTA (AP)—A proposed federal law that would demand testimony from witnesses at congressional investigations in exchange for personal immunity from prosecution was approved by the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association Monday.

The body's criminal law section approved of the immunity-for-witness law in full. It would give the U. S. attorney general sole responsibility in determining who should and should not be permitted to use it. The House of Delegates noted that Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell is in full accord with the legislation.

Missiles Deployed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first Matador guided missile squadron will leave today for a base in West Germany, the Air Force announced Monday night.

Transfer of the unit from the guided missile test center at Coconao, Fla., to Germany will be by train and ship, a spokesman said. The Matador, which will become a part of the NATO defense system in Western Europe, is capable of using either atomic or conventional explosive warheads.

$7 Billion For Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States in a little over four years has supplied $7,700,000,000 in military aid to strengthen other free nations against the Soviet threat, President Eisenhower told Congress Monday.

He said almost half the total was sent during 1953, with shipments declining during the second half of last year. This, Eisenhower said, was a year in which the North Atlantic Treaty (NATO) nations spent over 11 1/2 billion dollars in bulwarking their defenses, with a moderate increase indicated during 1954.

Cancer Study Shows 'Something Stays In Lungs When You Inhale Smoke'

New Lead May Be Clue In Cigaret-Health Problem

NEW YORK (INS) — In the eerie, fluorescent blue glow of an ultra-violet light, a team of New York cancer scientists showed Monday that something stays in your lungs when you inhale cigarette smoke.

A reporter puffed on a cigarette but did not inhale—and then blew the smoke into a flash of benzol. Under the blue light, in a darkened room, the smoke had a fluorescent shine.

The volunteer took another puff. This time he inhaled deeply. He breathed the smoke out into an identical flask—but there was no glow.

The cigarette-smoke component that fluoresced under the blue light apparently was still in his lungs.

Hydrocarbon

Scientists at the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research said the unknown "something" has been identified tentatively as a hydrocarbon—a class of chemicals that includes some of the most powerful cancer-causing agents known.

But they emphasized firmly that the unknown substance is not any of the known cancer producers, that there is no evidence that it causes lung cancer in humans, and that many similar hydrocarbons are harmless.

This exciting new lead nevertheless may be a clue to the cigarette-and-cancer problem, the researchers said, for now they can try to identify the stay-behind substance exactly and see just what it does in the lungs of smokers.

Tests conducted so far show that no American or foreign filter keeps the fluorescent chemical in the smoke from getting into the lungs, and staying there, the scientists said.

Assurance Fund

The demonstration — a repeat performance of a new finding by Dr. Herman Druckberg of the University of Freiburg, Germany, was one of several new leads in cancer research reported Monday.

The reports came at a news conference kicking off a campaign to raise a 10 million dollar

"assurance fund" for the Memorial Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases and its Sloan-Kettering research unit.

Mr. Laurence S. Rockefeller, president of the Center, said the money is urgently needed to guarantee that current efforts against cancer continue in full force and to give "emergency acceleration" to a vast new program: cancer prevention.

Dr. C. P. Rhoads, Sloan-Kettering director, said the new division of cancer prevention will have two jobs—finding and defining cancer's causes, inside and outside the body, and killing cancer cells faster with surgery, radiation and chemicals.

One project, he said, is measurement of "the amount of potentially cancer-producing component of tobacco smoke which is retained by the lung when inhaled," as shown by the German experiment.

In another promising experiment, pieces of embryonic human lung tissue are being transplanted to animals. If they take root and grow, they will provide a living laboratory for scientists testing the effect of cigarette smoke on human lungs.

Minnesota's Sen. Humphrey may have chosen a more difficult battleground for a rear guard action against the administration's 800-page tax bill.

Humphrey will seek to block a billion-dollar excise tax reduction. He will fight the bill which comes from the House on the ground that the government cannot afford the loss of revenue involved in the proposed reduction program of excise taxes.

The larger issue of greater concern to the individual goes to an increase in the exemption given the individual in payment of his income tax. That present exemptions stands at $600. Sen. George has proposed that it be raised to $800 this year per person—and $1,000 per person next year. If it is purchasing power that is to be placed in the hands of the consumers, then obviously increasing the exemption enjoyed by each individual would free a great deal more purchasing power than the slash in excise taxes.

In many instances in the lowest income brackets, an increase in exemption would eliminate the tax burden for a good many families.

This bill, however, as drawn by the administration ignores what is called in this country the great middle class.

Voice Of The Court

The full implications of the ruling of the United States Supreme Court Monday in connection with present controversy over the scope of congressional investigations are not clear.

By unanimous decision the court held that testimony given before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee may not be used in criminal prosecutions in state courts.

It was the Supreme Court's finding that the federal criminal code section applies to both federal and state courts. "The act," Justice Black wrote in delivering the unanimous opinion of the high bench, "forbids use of such evidence in any court. Language could be no plainer. Even if there could be legislative history sufficiently strong to make 'any court' mean United States courts only, there is no such history. The few scraps of legislative history . . . tend to indicate that Congress was well aware that any ordinary person would read the phrase 'in any court' to include state courts. To construe this phrase as having any other meaning would make the act a trap for the unwary."

The case upon which the court was passing was the 1952 conviction of a man named William Adams of Baltimore, convicted as a numbers operator. He has appealed to the United States Supreme Court, contending testimony he gave to the Senate committee in July of 1951 about his numbers activities

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Now we have it straight from the horse's mouth that Nebraska's rural electrification districts, publicly-owned and managed, have nothing to fear from the amazing directive issued by the Department of Interior governing the sale of power in connection with federally-developed projects in the Missouri River Basin and in other sections of the country, particularly the Pacific Northwest. It (the directive) and the discussion inspired by it are purely "academic"

Who says so? None other than Assistant Secretary of Interior Fred G. Aandahl, former North Dakota governor and now sparkplug for Douglas McKay, secretary of the interior, former governor of Oregon and best known perhaps for his hostility to the public power program of the last 20 years. In Lincoln to address the annual convention of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association, Mr. Aandahl pulled this word, "academic," from out of his hat when an inquiring Star reporter asked some pointed questions about Interior's new directive. Mr. Aandahl rose to the occasion nobly. It's "academic," he said, parrying the questions without even so much as cracking a smile. It may be academic, but out through this section of the country, thousands of rural electric customers including a great many who supported the Eisenhower administration see in that directive a subtle move to sell them down the river to the private utility interests. They see in the requirement for estimating power needs a heavy additional financial burden, a burden so heavy it may seriously cripple operations.

Mr. Aandahl's answer is that what is being talked about is "academic." What are plain, ordinary people going to do when any time they ask questions or voice complaints, they promptly meet up with such expressions as "academic" or in other occasions are told that they are "eggheads"?

Taking Assistant Secretary Aandahl at his word, let's find out what he meant when he said this directive was "academic." Again, a visit to Webster's unabridged dictionary seems advisable. There we find "academic" defined at some length in this manner: (a) belonging to the school of philosophy of Plato, or of the Academy; (b) of, pertaining to or belonging to an academy; of, pertaining to or belonging to a college or university generally; (c) of or pertaining to literary, classical, or liberal studies, in distinction from technical or professional—specifically of or pertaining to the arts college; (d) conforming to scholastic traditions or rules—conventional—formal—as "graceful academic verse"; (e) theoretical and not expected to produce an immediate or practical result—as "an academic discussion"; (f) conforming to the teachings of Vitruvius (first century B.C.) and later classical theorists, as embodied in the doctrines of the Italian and French academies—marked by the conventional use of the classical orders; (g) fine arts; of or pertaining to, or resulting from the teachings of an organized school of art—rigid and formal but showing full and detailed knowledge of the subject.

The reader will take his pick. This directive which has lighted a prairie fire in the Midwest and along the Pacific coast actually started from an "academic" experiment. Which, if it means anything at all, means that Secretary McKay and Assistant Secretary Aandahl for the sheer hell of it have gone to a lot of trouble to engage the energies and thoughts of millions of people in "academic" spirit. Aandahl may succeed in selling that to a good many, but here's a guy who will not buy his explanation.

should not have been admitted at his trial in Baltimore. Adams actually was convicted in a Baltimore court of violating the Maryland lottery laws, sentenced to seven years imprisonment and fined $2,000.

Now, in the battle against Communism, what happens when criminal proceedings grow out of investigations by congressional committees, which in the end result in criminal proceedings to the introduction of testimony brought out in those hearings? This editor would not even venture an opinion as to whether the Supreme Court findings announced Monday have any bearing upon the congressional committee's Red hunts. The court was dealing only with testimony given before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, not with evidence brought out by other congressional groups.

But the court ruling may assume a larger importance in the present controversy over congressional committee procedure in the conduct of its investigations.

The Wheat Paradox

The nation is looking at a paradox. The government is complaining about a grain surplus. Bins are overflowing and there is concern over what to do with the oncoming crop. Yet the price of wheat has been rising since last October.

The Department of Agriculture, always aware of its own desires and presently plugging for flexible price supports, has offered a curious explanation. It is blaming high price supports, which is the thing it doesn't like. It says that its own surplus coupled with a great amount of farm-owned grain, sealed under loan, have caused a shortage in wheat in the channels of normal trade.

This is an odd reason for deploring a high price. It would be unbusinesslike for the farmer to let his stored grain go for the loan price when the market is above it. And it is next to impossible to account for such a situation by pointing to high support prices. If they would do anything they would hold stored grain closer to the market price, possibly even above it. Flexible lower supports would only intensify that.

But it does seem that the department is sitting on a fairly effective remedy. Why does it not relieve the current market from its own surplus? It doesn't make sense to carry on about surpluses for which it says it can find no market while consumers are being penalized because current trading supplies are short. The paradox seems to be caused by myopia.

The Real Meaning

True D. Morse, undersecretary of agriculture appearing before the Senate the other day in support of the administration's farm bill had this to say:

"Flexible price supports establishing price floors for basic crops would be high in times of scarcity to encourage production and low in times of surplus to encourage consumption and discourage production."

This has been stated before, but somehow its meaning does not get through to many in the farm belt. They have taken it as one side of a debate against fixed price supports for the improvement of agriculture. And they have chosen sides on that basis.

The debate on such terms is one of form not essence. It conceals the true intention of the administration to reverse the philosophy that has characterized the farm program from the very beginning.

Until now price supports have been a device to gain an equitable relationship for the farmer between what he gets for that which he produces, and what he pays for the things he buys. They have been equalizers to protect agriculture against economic decay.

But the Benson flexible price support plan by its own definition abandons the principle for that of controlling production—a case of changing the defender into the jailer. For better or worse it is a profound change in attitude.

French Reject U. S. Troop-Training Plan

WASHINGTON—The headlines and hullabaloo over McCarthy vs. Eisenhower have obscured a lot of other things happening around the world, some just about as important to the free world as the battle over McCarthyism.

One is an indignant though unpublished veto by French Foreign Minister Bidault of the American suggestion that the United States train native Indo-Chinese troops.

When the proposal was put up to the French that U.S. military men use the same training facilities they so successfully used with the Greeks and South Koreans, Bidault told the American embassy. As long as French troops and not Americans are fighting and dying in Indo-China, there will be no American training program.

Bidault's answer startled the Pentagon which had been planning to send Gen. "Iron Mike" O'Daniel in Indo-China. O'Daniel will still go, but with no authority to train troops.

Meanwhile, it's reported that at a secret meeting in Peiping, the Russians and Chinese promised heavy armament and troops to the Indo-Chinese Reds. All indications are that Indo-China will sooner or later go Communist.

MCCARTHY'S SCAPEGOAT

Sen. McCarthy is looking for a new chief counsel for his investigating committee. Roy Cohn, the brash, brilliant young prosecuting attorney now holding down that job, is slated for the axe.

Chief reason is that McCarthy needs a scapegoat. The heat from the White House has been too great; also from other members of the McCarthy subcommittee.

Another reason for axing Cohn is that the Army has kept a record of his telephone conversations on behalf of his friend Gerard David Schine in which he sought favors for the young ex-McCarthy investigator.

Significantly, McCarthy is trying to find a lawyer of the Jewish faith to replace Cohn. He considers this important in order to offset the charge that he is anti-Semitic.

Cohn, however, did not exactly like McCarthy to refute this charge. Meeting McCarthy and Cohn at the Carroll Arms hotel in Washington one day, Arnold Forster secretary of the Anti-Defamation League, was greeted with this salutation from Cohn: "How are all the Jews in New York?"

"Fine," replied Forster. "I had dinner with your father last night."

THE VEEP'S COMEBACK

One of the grand old men of American politics, Alben (The VEEP) Barkley, is expected to announce this week that he will stage a comeback to Washington. Barkley, now 75 years old, but spry than most men of 40, has been speaking all over Kentucky and will soon announce for the Senate seat he vacated when elected vice president in 1948.

Political dopesters predict that he is certain to win. Kentucky has come to love Alben as it does bourbon and race horses; so that almost no Republican candidate could stop him, not even one as able as Sen. John Sherman Cooper.

Cooper, a former governor of Kentucky and once before elected to the Senate, is one of the most popular Republicans in a state traditionally Democratic. It is said that if Cooper had been born 50 miles farther west he would

STAN DELAPLANE'S POSTCARD

From Manila

"And so we leave the mysterious East, the fragrant isles of Hong Kong . . ."

That is the way travel writers leave. Travel writers, I guess have no baggage. The mysterious thing about the Far East to me is how do I get out of it.

I have learned to travel light. Two orlon shirts, two pairs of nylon socks, one nylon pajamas. Mr. Irving Hoffman, the Broadway bon vivant, gave me further advice: "Never pack or unpack for yourself," said Mr. Hoffman. "Let the room boy do it for you."

Mr. Hoffman has further advice for travelers. "Never carry anything for anybody. You will wind up being a pack camel."

Mr. Hoffman thereupon took a CAT plane up to Formosa. He left me a huge zippered canvas bag full of old clothes for me to carry to the States.

"Just put it on the plane," said Mr. Hoffman.

The room boy at Senning House packed me. He unpacked a great deal of Hoffman's old clothes and put them in my suitcase. He put my shirts and socks and pajamas six fathoms deep below Mr. Hoffman's old socks. By the time we got this all sorted out, the zipper broke in the bag. We wound up tying the whole thing with a rope.

Philippine Air Lines weighed me in. They announced that I was $79.50 U.S. overweight.

I travel light. But my friends travel lighter. I carry their baggage.

Kaitai airport has a new runway. Instead of taking off into those big hard hills, they close have been a Democrat and could stay in the Senate indefinitely. However, during the Civil War, the political line separated Kentucky's eastern mountains from the pro-South midlands, and the state has been divided politically ever since.

So it's almost certain that the familiar face of the VEEP will be seen once again around the Capitol.

JOHNSON CALLS CAUCUS

It has now been two months since Congress convened, and at long last Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the so-called Democratic leader, has called a Democratic caucus.

Ordinarily a party caucus is held at the very start of a congressional session, but Johnson carefully avoided calling one until this week.

Reason for ducking usual procedure was the fear that Democratic senators opposing him would stage a rump revolt.

Meanwhile, Lyndon has been complaining privately to colleagues that his hands are tied by conservative forces back in Texas, such as Oilman Hunt and the Shiversites. If he antagonizes them he fears he'll arouse opposition for re-election.

This caused the Louisville Courier-Journal, one of the leading Democratic papers of the nation, to ask Johnson editorially and his assistant, Sen. Clements of Kentucky, which was most important—the Democratic party or Texas opposition to Johnson. The main object of the Democratic leadership in the Senate, the Courier-Journal chided, seemed to be to conduct the Democratic party for the benefit of Lyndon Johnson, not for the benefit of the nation.

RECESSION ADVICE

It may be denied, but the President's chief economic adviser, Dr. Arthur Burns, complained privately to Ike that the Republicans—not the Democrats—are about to frighten the country into a depression.

Burns pointed out that the economic symptoms are plain to see across the country, and the average businessman recognized that we are going through a slight recession. By denying any slump, Burns warned, GOP speakers give the country the impression that they are trying to cover up. This, he told his chief, is more apt to cause an economic panic than the Democratic gloom - and - doom speeches.

WASHINGTON PIPELINE

The merger of Nash Motors and Hudson was delayed until Hudson got a final OK from its largest stockholder—popular Queen Juliana of the Netherlands. She owns 16 per cent of Hudson's stock. Police have found a clue linking a former United Auto Workers official to the shooting of CIO Boss Walter Reuther. The name and phone number of racketeer Santo Perrone, who allegedly was in on the murder attempt, were found in the labor official's desk. Reuther had cleaned the numbers racket out of various plants. Perrone and others wanted it continued.

The Democrats will put up a fight in Congress for salary raises for government workers. The Big American oil companies are frantic over the sudden anti-Arabian attitude of Saudi Arabia's new king, Saud Al Saud. He has fallen under the influence of bitterly anti-American advisers, and U. S. companies are worried that he will stop all American co-operation.

Fifth Amendment

Editor's Note: Man's protest against being made to testify against himself and against testimony by torture is an old one. Out of it came our Fifth Constitutional amendment taken from British experience arising in the twelfth century. Its history is touched upon by Erwin N. Griswold in his recent address before the Massachusetts Bar Association. Griswold is dean of the Harvard Law School.

Historians can trace the origin of this privilege (against self-incrimination) to the twelfth century. Apparently it began in controversies between the king and the bishops. The bishops sought to examine people about a wide variety of alleged offenses, and the king sought to limit the bishops to purely ecclesiastical subjects.

By the sixteenth century the idea had been reduced to a Latin maxim which was rather frequently voiced, but which does not seem by any means to have reflected the practice of that period. This maxim is: Nemo tenetur prodere se ipsum—or, in English, no one should be required to accuse himself.

As early as 1589, the young Coke apparently obtained a writ of prohibition against proceedings in the spiritual courts, on this ground. But the maxim was then little more than an idea.

Over the next 50 years, it was apparently, standard practice not only to make suspected persons give evidence against themselves, but also to use torture to make sure that the accused would speak. Indeed, it appears that Coke himself at times participated in the administration of torture.

As we think of the development of the privilege as it has continued to this day, we should not overlook the fact of its close connection with the struggle to eliminate torture as a governmental practice.

It seems quite clear that we owe the privilege of today primarily to Freeborn John Lilburn. He was a cantankerous person, the sort to whom we owe much for many of our basic rights.

One of his contemporaries said that, "If all the world was emptied of all but John Lilburn, Lilburn would quarrel with John and John with Lilburn." Like most conscientious people, he was stubborn.

In 1637, he was haled before the Star Chamber on a charge of having imported certain heretical and seditious books. He refused to take the oath to answer truly, and the Council of the Star Chamber condemned him to be whipped and pilloried, for his "boldness in refusing to take a legal oath," without which many offenses might go "undiscovered and unpunished." And in 1693, the sentence was carried out.

But Lilburn persisted. He filed a petition with Parliament, and in 1641 the House of Commons voted that the sentence was illegal and against the liberty of the subject. Later, the House of Lords concurred with this view, and ordered an indemnity paid to him in the amount of £3000, which was a very large sum in those days.

Courthouse Elevator
Firth, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: After having been appointed a county representative for preliminary study on the proposed city-county office building, I felt it my duty to contact various taxpayers in the vicinity of Firth, Neb., to get their reactions to this matter, as well as their suggestions. I have heard arguments both pro and con. I would express those arguments here but I will carry them with me to our committee meetings. If any individual has any argument to express, either pro or con, I feel that he or she should do so through this space provided by The Lincoln Star or through personal communication with the various representatives on the committee.

However, one thing has appeared in the paper lately which has touched off quite a bit of bitter argument. That is the matter of installing an elevator in the present courthouse building. If this city-county building idea does materialize, it would seem very foolish to spend approximately $25,000 for an elevator in the old building when it is about to be torn down, sold or otherwise disposed of. As Commissioner Kuhner points out, the elevator would be built so that it could be used in another building—but would it? Even if it were used again, we would still have the expense of installing it now, tearing it out, moving it, and then reinstalling it in another building. If the new building were to be built on this same site, we would still have the extra expense. Why not wait until we see what the outcome of this proposed city-county building is; then if it doesn't materialize, people would not be nearly so averse to the idea of the elevator.

We and many others have walked up these steps for many years. It would seem strange if we could not continue this for a while longer until we see what happens. The aged, ill and disabled citizens usually have their children take care of their business for them, and a lot of it is done by mail. Furthermore, social security benefits will eventually do away with a lot of old age recipient cases which will eliminate those who have to visit the Courthouse. Let's go a little easy on throwing all this money around.

Roots Lie In Twelfth Century enough to establish the privilege against self-incrimination as a part of the common law. By the latter half of the seventeenth century, we find many occasions when the privilege was recognized by the English courts, and it has been recognized ever since. Indeed, it is still a matter of common law in England. But it is very deeply imbedded in the common law.

Thus, the privilege came to this continent as a part of the legal heritage of our early settlers. Some trace of the privilege is found in this commonwealth as early as 1637, in the trial of Anne Hutchinson and John Wheelwright. It was also recognized in the other colonies, although the evidences are rather scarce.

Let me read to you a record which has come down to us from Pennsylvania in 1689. In that year, William Bradford was summoned before the Governor and Council of the Province of Pennsylvania. Bradford was the man who introduced the art of printing to the middle provinces of America. He was about 26 years old when this episode occurred. At the instance of one of the citizens of Pennsylvania, Bradford had printed the Charter of the Province so that people could see their rights. He had not put his name on the pamphlet, apparently anticipating some trouble.

Here is the examination, chiefly by the Governor. You may want to consider whether you have ever heard anything like it before:

"Governour: Why, sir, I would know by what power of authority you thus print? Here is the charter printed!"

"Bradford: It was by Governor Penn's encouragement. I came to this province, and by his license I print."

"Governour: What, sir, had you license to print the charter? I desire to know from you, whether you did print the charter or not, and who set you to work?"

"Bradford: Governour, it is an impracticable thing for any man to accuse himself; thou knows it very well."

"Governour: Well, I shall not much press you to it, but if you were so ingenious as to confess, it should go the better with you. "Bradford: Governour, I desire to know my accusers; I think it very hard to be put upon accusing myself."

"Governour: Can you deny that you printed it? I do know you did print it, and by whose directions, and will prove it, and make you smart for it, too, since you are so stubborn. "John Hill: I am informed that 160 were printed yesterday, and that Joseph Growden said he gave 20 shillings for his part towards the printing it."

"Bradford: It's nothing to me, what Jos. Growden said. Let me know my accusers, and I shall know the better how to make my defense."

Little is heard about self-incrimination during the eighteenth century. This may well have been because the privilege was generally recognized in the colonies after it had become established as part of the common law of England.

Hooked Rugs Add Up To a Barefooted Man

Rug trouble has brought a sock crisis to our house.

It is the indoor season of the year when Mrs. F. is hooking rugs again. Hooking rugs, in case you are not familiar with the term, has nothing to do with purloining, taking or stealing them. It is a form of manufacture in which endless hours are spent pulling little strips of wool through little holes in a burlap sack, until there is more wool in the burlap than there are holes.

It was better when Mrs. F. was making woven rag rugs from scraps of old blankets, pants, wool shirts and similar tattered garments. The strips have to be longer for a rag rug than they do for a hooked rug, so the only thing I had to go around protecting from her shears was my pair of long red underwear that I used when I went hunting.

Socks, however, cut up into strips which are just right for hooked rugs. My authority for that statement is Mrs. F. Socks from which strips have been cut are very uncomfortable on the feet. I am the authority for that. And I speak from experience.

My objections to the steady disappearance of one sock after another began to have some effect when I pointed out that it was ridiculous to have a family budget in which socks called for as much expenditures as groceries. Mrs. F. promised, after reviewing the financial statement, to use only socks which had holes in them.

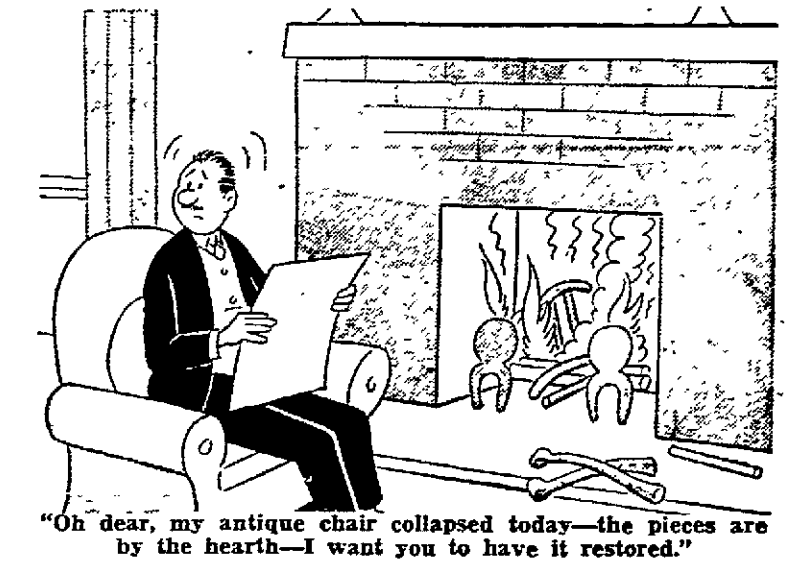

Five minutes later I caught her hiding the manicuring scissors so I couldn't trim my toenails.

I thought I had the solution when I casually inquired about the color scheme of her rug, and bought socks of another hue. She just changed the kind of ducks she was working on.

I've got her stopped now, though. I'm buying silk socks, and wearing three pairs for warmth.

The full implications of the ruling of the United States Supreme Court Monday in connection with present controversy over the scope of congressional investigations are not clear.

By unanimous decision the court held that testimony given before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee may not be used in criminal prosecutions in state courts.

It was the Supreme Court's finding that the federal criminal code section applies to both federal and state courts. "The act," Justice Black wrote in delivering the unanimous opinion of the high bench, "forbids use of such evidence in any court. Language could be no plainer. Even if there could be legislative history sufficiently strong to make 'any court' mean United States courts only, there is no such history. The few scraps of legislative history . . . tend to indicate that Congress was well aware that any ordinary person would read the phrase 'in any court' to include state courts. To construe this phrase as having any other meaning would make the act a trap for the unwary."

The case upon which the court was passing was the 1952 conviction of a man named William Adams of Baltimore, convicted as a numbers operator. He has appealed to the United States Supreme Court, contending testimony he gave to the Senate committee in July of 1951 about his numbers activities

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Now we have it straight from the horse's mouth that Nebraska's rural electrification districts, publicly-owned and managed, have nothing to fear from the amazing directive issued by the Department of Interior governing the sale of power in connection with federally-developed projects in the Missouri River Basin and in other sections of the country, particularly the Pacific Northwest. It (the directive) and the discussion inspired by it are purely "academic."

Who says so? None other than Assistant Secretary of Interior Fred G. Aandahl, former North Dakota governor and now sparkplug for Douglas McKay, secretary of the interior, former governor of Oregon and best known perhaps for his hostility to the public power program of the last 20 years. In Lincoln to address the annual convention of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association, Mr. Aandahl pulled this word, "academic," from out of his hat when an inquiring Star reporter asked some pointed questions about Interior's new directive. Mr. Aandahl rose to the occasion nobly. It's "academic," he said, parrying the questions without even so much as cracking a smile. It may be academic, but out through this section of the country, thousands of rural electric customers including a great many who supported the Eisenhower administration see in that directive a subtle move to sell them down the river to the private utility interests. They see in the requirement for estimating power needs a heavy additional financial burden, a burden so heavy it may seriously cripple operations.

Mr. Aandahl's answer is that what is being talked about is "academic." What are plain, ordinary people going to do when any time they ask questions or voice complaints, they promptly meet up with such expressions as "academic" or in other occasions are told that they are "eggheads?"

Taking Assistant Secretary Aandahl at his word, let's find out what he meant when he said this directive was "academic." Again, a visit to Webster's unabridged dictionary seems advisable. There we find "academic" defined at some length in this manner: (a) belonging to the school of philosophy of Plato, or of the Academy; (b) of, pertaining to or belonging to an academy; of, pertaining to or belonging to a college or university generally; (c) of or pertaining to literary, classical, or liberal studies, in distinction from technical or professional—specifically of or pertaining to the arts colleges; (d) conforming to scholastic traditions or rules—conventional—formal—as "graceful academic verse"; (e) theoretical and not expected to produce an immediate or practical result—as "an academic discussion"; (f) conforming to the teachings of Vitruvius (first century B.C.) and later classical theorists, as embodied in the doctrines of the Italian and French academies—marked by the conventional use of the classical orders; (g) fine arts; of or pertaining to, or resulting from the teachings of an organized school of art—rigid and formal but showing full and detailed knowledge of the subject.

Beautiful 50-Cent Word

The reader will take his pick. This directive which has lighted a prairie fire in the Midwest and along the Pacific coast actually started from an "academic" experiment. Which, if it means anything at all, means that Secretary McKay and Assistant Secretary Aandahl for the sheer hell of it have gone to a lot of trouble to enrage the energies and thoughts of millions of people in "academic" spirit. Aandahl may succeed in selling that to a good many, but here's a guy who will not buy his explanation.

should not have been admitted at his trial in Baltimore. Adams actually was convicted in a Baltimore court of violating the Maryland lottery laws, sentenced to seven years imprisonment and fined $2,000.

Now, in the battle against Communism, what happens when criminal proceedings grow out of investigations by congressional committees, which in the end result in criminal proceedings to the introduction of testimony brought out in those hearings? This editor would not even venture an opinion as to whether the Supreme Court findings announced Monday have any bearing upon the congressional committee's Red hunts. The court was dealing only with testimony given before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, not with evidence brought out by other congressional groups.

But the court ruling may assume a larger importance in the present controversy over congressional committee procedure in the conduct of its investigations.

The Wheat Paradox

The nation is looking at a paradox. The government is complaining about a grain surplus. Bins are overflowing and there is concern over what to do with the oncoming crop. Yet the price of wheat has been rising since last October.

The Department of Agriculture, always aware of its own desires and presently plugging for flexible price supports, has offered a curious explanation. It is blaming high price supports, which is the thing it doesn't like. It says that its own surplus coupled with a great amount of farm-owned grain, sealed under loan, have caused a shortage in wheat in the channels of normal trade.

This is an odd reason for deploring a high price. It would be unbusinesslike for the farmer to let his stored grain go for the loan price when the market is above it. And it is next to impossible to account for such a situation by pointing to high support prices. If they would do anything they would hold stored grain closer to the market price, possibly even above it. Flexible lower supports would only intensify that.

But it does seem that the department is sitting on a fairly effective remedy. Why does it not relieve the current market from its own surplus? It doesn't make sense to carry on about surpluses for which it says it can find no market while consumers are being penalized because current trading supplies are short. The paradox seems to be caused by myopia.

The Real Meaning

True D. Morse, undersecretary of agriculture appearing before the Senate the other day in support of the administration's farm bill had this to say:

"Flexible price supports establishing price floors for basic crops would be high in times of scarcity to encourage production and low in times of surplus to encourage consumption and discourage production."

This has been stated before, but somehow its meaning does not get through to many in the farm belt. They have taken it as one side of a debate against fixed price supports for the improvement of agriculture. And they have chosen sides on that basis.

The debate on such terms is one of form not essence. It conceals the true intention of the administration to reverse the philosophy that has characterized the farm program from the very beginning.

Until now price supports have been a device to gain an equitable relationship for the farmer between what he gets for that which he produces, and what he pays for the things he buys. They have been equalizers to protect agriculture against economic decay.

But the Benson flexible price support plan by its own definition abandons the principle for that of controlling production—a case of changing the defender into the jailer. For better or worse it is a profound change in attitude.

Ike's Privilege

After the shooting in Congress President Eisenhower cancelled a reception for security reasons. Bored husbands seeking new excuses for staying away from tedious parties will hail Ike as a real contributor to the art of ducking out. There will be an outbreak of social rejections now based on security.

French Reject U. S. Troop-Training Plan

WASHINGTON—The headlines and hullabaloo over McCarthy vs. Eisenhower have obscured a lot of other things happening around the world, some just about as important to the free world as the battle over McCarthyism.

One is an indignant though unpublished veto by French Foreign Minister Bidault of the American suggestion that the United States train native Indo-Chinese troops.

When the proposal was put up to the French that U.S. military men use the same training tactics they so successfully used with the Greeks and South Koreans, Bidault told the American embassy. As long as French troops and not Americans are fighting and dying in Indo-China, there will be no American training program.

Bidault's answer startled the Pentagon which had been planning to send Gen. "Iron Mike" O'Daniel in Indo-China. O'Daniel will still go, but with no authority to train troops.

Meanwhile, it's reported that at a secret meeting in Peiping, the Russians and Chinese promised heavy armament and troops to the Indo-Chinese Reds. All indications are that Indo-China will sooner or later go Communist.

MCCARTHY'S SCAPEGOAT

Sen. McCarthy is looking for a new chief counsel for his investigating committee. Roy Cohn, the brash, brilliant young prosecuting attorney now holding down that job, is slated for the axe.

Chief reason is that McCarthy needs a scapegoat. The heat from the White House has been too great; also from other members of the McCarthy subcommittee.

Another reason for axing Cohn is that the Army kept a record of his telephone conversations on behalf of his friend Gerard David Schine in which he sought favors for the young ex-McCarthy investigator.

Significantly, McCarthy is trying to find a lawyer of the Jewish faith to replace Cohn. He considers this important in order to offset the charge that he is anti-Semitic.

Cohn, however, did not exactly help McCarthy to refute this charge. Meeting McCarthy and Cohn at the Carroll Arms hotel in Washington one day, Arnold Forster secretary of the Anti-Defamation League, was greeted with this salutation from Cohn: "How are all the Jews in New York?"

"Fine," replied Forster. "I had dinner with your father last night."

THE VEEP'S COMEBACK

One of the grand old men of American politics, Albert (The VEEP) Barkley, is expected to announce this week that he will stage a comeback to Washington. Barkley, now 76 years old, but spryer than most men of 40, has been speaking all over Kentucky and will soon announce for the Senate seat he vacated when elected vice president in 1948.

Political dopest predict that he is certain to win. Kentucky has come to love Allen as it does bourbon and race horses; so that almost no Republican candidate could stop him, not even one as able as Sen. John Sherman Cooper.

Cooper, a former governor of Kentucky and once before elected to the Senate, is one of the most popular Republicans in a state traditionally Democratic. It is said that if Cooper had been born 50 miles farther west he would

From Manila

"And so we leave the mysterious East, the fragrant isles of Hong Kong . . ."

That is the way travel writers leave. Travel writers, I guess have no baggage. The mysterious thing about the Far East to me is how I get out of it.

I have learned to travel light. Two orlon shirts, two pairs of nylon socks, one nylon pajamas. Mr. Irving Hoffman, the Broadway bon vivant, gave me further advice:

"Never pack or unpack for yourself," said Mr. Hoffman. "Let the room boy do it for you."

Mr. Hoffman has further advice for travelers.

"Never carry anything for anybody. You will wind up being a pack camel."

Mr. Hoffman thereupon took a CAT plane up to Formosa. He left me a huge zippered canvas bag full of old clothes for me to carry to the States.

"Just put it on the plane," said Mr. Hoffman.

The room boy at Sunning House packed me. He unpacked a great deal of Hoffman's old clothes and put them in my suitcase. He put my shirts and socks and pajamas six fathoms deep below Mr. Hoffman's old socks.

By the time we got this all sorted out, the zipper broke on the bag. We wound up tying the whole thing with a rope.

Philippine Air Lines weighed me in. They announced that I was 57.50 U.S. overweight.

I travel light. But my friends travel lighter. I carry their baggage.

So it's almost certain that the familiar face of the VEEP will be seen once again around the Capitol.

JOHNSON CALLS CAUCUS

It has now been two months since Congress convened, and at long last Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the so-called Democratic leader, has called a Democratic caucus.

Ordinarily a party caucus is held at the very start of a congressional session, but Johnson carefully avoided calling one until this week.

Reason for ducking usual procedure was the fear that Democratic senators opposing him would stage a rump revolt.

Meanwhile, Lyndon has been complaining privately to colleagues that his hands are tied by conservative forces back in Texas, such as Oilman Hunt and the Shivercrats. If he antagonizes them he fears he'll arouse opposition for re-election.

This caused the Louisville Courier-Journal, one of the leading Democratic papers of the nation, to ask Johnson editorially and his assistant, Sen. Clements of Kentucky, which was most important—the Democratic party or Texas opposition to Johnson. The main object of the Democratic leadership in the Senate, the Courier-Journal asked, seemed to be to conduct the Democratic party for the benefit of Lyndon Johnson, not for the benefit of the nation.

RECESSION ADVICE

It may be denied, but the President's chief economic adviser, Dr. Arthur Burns, complained privately to Ike that the Republicans—not the Democrats—are about to frighten the country into a depression.

Burns pointed out that the economic symptoms are plain to see across the country, and the average businessman recognized that we are going through a slight recession. By denying any slump, Burns warned, GOP speakers give the country the impression that they are trying to cover up. This, he told his chief, is more apt to cause an economic panic than the Democratic gloom- and - doom speeches.

The merger of Nash Motors and Hudson was delayed until Hudson got a final OK from its largest stockholder—popular Queen Juliana of The Netherlands. She owns 16 per cent of Hudson's stock. Police have found a clue linking a former United Auto Workers official to the shooting of CIO Boss Walter Reuther. The name and phone number of racketeer Santo Perone, who allegedly was in on the murder attempt, were found in the labor official's desk. Reuther had cleaned the numbers racket out of various plants. Perone and others wanted it continued.

The Democrats will put up a fight in Congress for salary raises for government workers . . . Fifth Amendment

Editor's Note: Man's protest against being made to testify against himself and against testimony by torture is an old one. Out of it came our Fifth Constitutional amendment taken from British experience arising in the Twelfth century. Its history is touched upon by Erwin N. Griswold in his recent address before the Massachusetts Bar Association. Griswold is dean of the Harvard Law School.

Historians can trace the origin of this privilege (against self-incrimination) to the twelfth century. Apparently it began in controversies between the king and the bishops. The bishops sought to examine people about a wide variety of alleged offenses, and the king sought to limit the bishops to purely ecclesiastical subjects.

By the sixteenth century the idea had been reduced to a Latin maxim which was rather frequently voiced, which does not seem by any means to have reflected the practice of that period. This maxim is: Nemo tenetur prodere se ipsum—or, in English, no one should be required to accuse himself.

As early as 1589, the young Coke apparently obtained a writ of prohibition against proceedings in the spiritual courts, on this ground. But the maxim was then little more than an idea.

Over the next 50 years, it was apparently, standard practice not only to make suspected persons give evidence against themselves, but also to use torture to make sure that the accused would speak. Indeed, it appears that Coke himself at times participated in the administration of torture.

As we think of the development of the privilege as it has continued to this day, we should not overlook the fact of its close connection with the struggle to eliminate torture as a governmental practice.

It seems quite clear that we owe the privilege of today primarily to Freeborn John Lilburn. He was a cantankerous person, the sort to whom we owe much for many of our basic rights.

One of his contemporaries said that "if the world was emptied of all but John Lilburn, Lilburn would quarrel with John and John with Lilburn." Like most conscientious people, he was stubborn.

In 1637, he was haled before the Star Chamber on a charge of having imported certain heretical and seditious books. He refused to take the oath to answer truly, and the Council of the Star Chamber condemned him to be whipped and pilloried, for his "boldness in refusing to take a legal oath," without which many offenses might go "undiscovered and unpunished." And in 1638, the sentence was carried out.

But Lilburn persisted. He filed a petition with Parliament, and in 1641 the House of Commons voted that the sentence was illegal and against the liberty of the subject. Later, the House of Lords concurred with this view, and ordered an indemnity paid to him in the amount of £3000, which was a very large sum in those days.

This event seems to have been

Courthouse Elevator

Firth, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: After having been appointed a county representative on a preliminary study on the proposed city-county office building, I felt it my duty to contact various taxpayers in the vicinity of Firth, Neb., to get their reactions to this matter, as well as their suggestions. I have heard arguments both pro and con. I won't express those arguments here but I will carry them with me to our committee meetings. If any individual has any argument to express, either pro or con, I feel that he or she should do so through this space provided by The Lincoln Star or through personal communication with the various representatives on the committee.

However, one thing has appeared in the paper lately which has touched off quite a bit of bitter argument. That is the matter of installing an elevator in the present courthouse building. If this city-county building idea does materialize, it would seem very foolish to spend approximately $26,000 for an elevator in the old building when it is about to be torn down, sold or otherwise disposed of. As Commissioner Kuhner points out, the elevator would be built so that it could be used in another building—but would it? Even if it were used again, we would still have the expense of installing it now, tearing it out, moving it, and then reinstalling it in another building. If the new building were to be built on this same site, we would still have the extra expense. Why not wait until we see what the outcome of this proposed city-county building is; then if it doesn't materialize, people would not be nearly so averse to the idea of the elevator.

We and many others have walked up these steps for many years. It would seem strange if we could not continue this for a while longer until we see what happens. The aged, ill and disabled citizens usually have their children take care of their business for them, and a lot of it is done by mail. Furthermore, social security benefits will eventually do away with a lot of old age recipient cases which will eliminate those who have to visit the Courthouse. Let's go a little easy on throwing all this money around.

Well, it is a great comfort, flying the China Sea, to be bolstered by the Sunday wisdom of 10-year-olds. I was more intrigued though with the name I found in the Manila newspapers about the plane. A gentleman from Donsol, Sorsogon was in minor difficulties. Enough to get his name in the journals: "Eleuterio Mad-Damit."

For some time I had been thinking of stealing that Chinese by-line. It would be pretty handsome to write under the name of "Plainschap Mo."

But considering, I have changed my mind. Just once I would like to walk into the Savoy in London. And take the pen from those elegant gentlemen in the morning coats and grey striped pants. And register myself: "Eleuterio Mad-Damit of Donsol, Sorsogon, Traveling light."

11 Million Needed For 'Muddy' Work

Decatur Dry Bridge Is Cited

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army engineers have told Congress that $11 million should be spent over a three-year period for Missouri River channel stabilization near Decatur, Neb.

In testimony before a House Appropriations Subcommittee—made public Monday—Brig. Gen. W. E. Potter recommended that $2 million be provided the first year, $3 million the second and $6 million the third.

Potter, engineer Missouri River chief at Omaha, said that $2 million requested in the President's budget for the year starting July 1, would be used in the Decatur area.

Channel Changes
It was here that a bridge was built across an area scheduled to become the river bed for the Missouri. However, the river changed course and the bridge now crosses a dry bed.

Potter said the $2 million requested for next fiscal year would be used in training the river north of Decatur and pushing it back into the right channel.

Potter also told the House members that during the last three years river improvements with a replacement value of $21 million had been destroyed by river waters.

He said this could have been prevented only "if there had been sufficient maintenance funds to allocate to the upper stretches of the river, with enough to enable us to do the maintenance work."

Potter told the subcommittee there would be no point in starting work on that stretch of the river 11 miles north of Decatur unless the House members felt money would be voted in future years to complete the work.

'Fall In'
"If we start them and do not complete them, that work would then fall in the river," he said.

Potter said he was concerned about a bend in the river above Decatur bridge "which looks like it might tend to make a very serious cutoff in that area which would leave the town some 1½ miles from the river."

For subsequent offenses, fine of $25 to $200, or 60 days in jail, or both.

North 10th Zone Change Is Vetoed

The City Council has voted down an ordinance on third reading changing the zoning of property at No. 10th and the highway cutoff from "AA" rural and public use to H-1 highway business.

The proposed change, to permit erection of a filling station, has been objected to on the grounds that it would detract from the appearances of Oak Creek Park.

The Council passed on three readings three ordinances for the issuance of $291,000 special improvement district bonds. The two issues will be $122,000 in water bonds and $269,000 in paving bonds.

Both issues will bear 1.4 percent interest. The purchaser is Stern Bros. of Kansas City, Mo. All bonds are for funds to pay off work done during the past year by the city.

The following three ordinances were also given third readings: Paving of the alley between Garfield and Sumner and 13th and 14th.

Water district in Webster from 73rd to 74th.

Opening to a width of 60 feet Mohawk from 40th to 44th.

Introduced on first reading was an ordinance establishing Country Club Terrace, a plat of 18 lots on the east side of 20th from Pioneers to Stockwell.

The City Council has dropped citations it had pending against four liquor licensees for the alleged sale of beer to a minor.

Edward L. Otoupalik, 109 So. 17th, Capital Beverage Mart.

The Council agreed with the city's legal department that the evidence to support citations against the latter two licensees was not convincing. The good past records of the first two licensees was pointed out in dropping those two citations.

School Lands Board Urges Rental Policy Re-Examination

The State Board of Educational Lands and Funds passed a resolution Monday urging the Legislature to re-examine the rental policy on school land and consider the "more flexible rental formulas that have been adopted by other states" and "consider the desirability of new legislation that is more adapted to the current condition of our agricultural economy."

The board then adhered to its past policy of following the present law in increasing values on school land in the last 17 counties of the state to be re-appraised and bringing them up to actual value as provided by statutes.

The present law fixes the annual rental of school land at 6 per cent of the appraised value of the land. In past years leaseholders have opposed increasing values to compare with other lands in the county because it would increase rental.

For the past year the board has been having all state school lands re-appraised and the action Monday completes the task for the entire state. In all instances increases have been made to make values comparable with privately owned land.

Average re-appraised values for land in the 17 counties and the

11 Million Needed For 'Muddy' Work Decatur Dry Bridge Is Cited

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army engineers have told Congress that $11 million should be spent over a three-year period for Missouri River channel stabilization near Decatur, Neb.

In testimony before a House Appropriations Subcommittee—made public Monday—Brig. Gen. W. E. Potter recommended that $2 million be provided the first year, $3 million the second and $6 million the third.

Potter, engineer Missouri River chief at Omaha, said that $2 million requested in the President's budget for the year starting July 1, would be used in the Decatur area.

Channel Changes
It was here that a bridge was built across an area scheduled to become the river bed for the Missouri. However, the river changed course and the bridge now crosses a dry bed.

Potter said the $2 million requested for next fiscal year would be used in training the river north of Decatur and pushing it back into the right channel.

Potter also told the House members that during the last three years river improvements with a replacement value of $21 million had been destroyed by river waters.

He said this could have been prevented only "if there had been sufficient maintenance funds to allocate to the upper stretches of the river, with enough to enable us to do the maintenance work."

Potter told the subcommittee there would be no point in starting work on that stretch of the river 11 miles north of Decatur unless the House members felt money would be voted in future years to complete the work.

'Fall In'
"If we start them and do not complete them, that work would then fall in the river," he said.

Potter said he was concerned about a bend in the river above Decatur bridge "which looks like it might tend to make a very serious cutoff in that area which would leave the town some 1½ miles from the river."

State Speeding Penalties Listed

The Attorney General's office Monday released an opinion clarifying the penalties imposed under existing state law for speeding.

The opinion outlines these penalties:

For speeding while driving a passenger car—first offense, fine of $10 to $50, or 30 days in jail, or both.

For subsequent offenses, fine of $25 to $200, or 60 days in jail, or both.

For speeding in a commercial vehicle—first and second offenses, fine of $10 to $100; third offense, fine of $10 to $100 and revocation of the license of the vehicle.

In determining the number of the offense, only those charges filed under state statute are counted, Asst. Atty. Gen. Ralph Nelson said.

North 10th Zone Change Is Vetoed

The City Council has voted down an ordinance on third reading changing the zoning of property at No. 10th and the highway cutoff from "AA" rural and public use to H-1 highway business.

The proposed change, to permit erection of a filling station, has been objected to on the grounds that it would detract from the appearances of Oak Creek Park.

The Council passed on three readings two ordinances for the issuance of $391,000 special improvement district bonds. The two issues will be $122,000 in water bonds and $269,000 in paving bonds.

Both issues will bear 1.4 percent interest. The purchaser is Stern Bros. of Kansas City, Mo. All bonds are for funds to pay off work done during the past year by the city.

The following three ordinances were also given third readings: Paving of the alley between Garfield and Sumner and 13th and 14th.

Water district in Webster from 73rd to 74th.

Opening to a width of 60 feet Mohawk from 40th to 44th.

Introduced on first reading was an ordinance establishing Country Club Terrace, a plat of 18 lots on the east side of 20th from Pioneers to Stockwell.

The victim was Patrick Simmonds, son of Mr. and Mrs. De Wayne Simmonds of Omaha.

Hanley said there would be no charges against the truck driver, Robert A. Hoffman, 26, of Omaha.

Council Drops 4 Liquor Citations

The City Council has dropped citations it had pending against four liquor licensees for the alleged sale of beer to a minor.

The licensees: Michael McLaughlin, 1120 N. The Hob Nob; Fred and John Derr, 146 So. 11th, The Senate Cafe; Edward L. Otoupalik, 109 So. 17th, Capital Beverage Mart; Vivian Robinson, 233 No. 9th, Jim's Tavern and Grill.

The Council agreed with the city's legal department that the evidence to support citations against the latter two licensees was not convincing. The good past records of the first two licensees was pointed out in dropping those two citations.

School Lands Board Urges Rental Policy Re-Examination

The State Board of Educational Lands and Funds passed a resolution Monday urging the Legislature to re-examine the rental policy on school land and consider the "more flexible rental formulas that have been adopted by other states" and "consider the desirability of new legislation that is more adapted to the current condition of our agricultural economy."

The board then adhered to its past policy of following the present law in increasing values on school land in the last 17 counties of the state to be re-appraised and bringing them up to actual value as provided by statutes.

The present law fixes the annual rental of school land at 6 per cent of the appraised value of the land. In past years leaseholders have opposed increasing values to compare with other lands in the county because it would increase rental.

Two More Die In Crashes; '54 Toll At 60

By the Associated Press
Nebraska's highway fatality toll stands at 60 following two more deaths, one at Wood River and the other at Allen. This count compares with 31 fatalities at this time last year.

The latest victims:
Rudolph Gloe, 48, Wood River. Mrs. Flora Salley, about 50, Wakefield.

The Wood River man was killed Monday afternoon in a two-car collision at a county road intersection three and a half miles west and one and a quarter miles south of Wood River.

The car driven by Gloe was in collision with one driven by Roland Carlson of Grand Island. Carlson was taken to the Shelton Clinic.

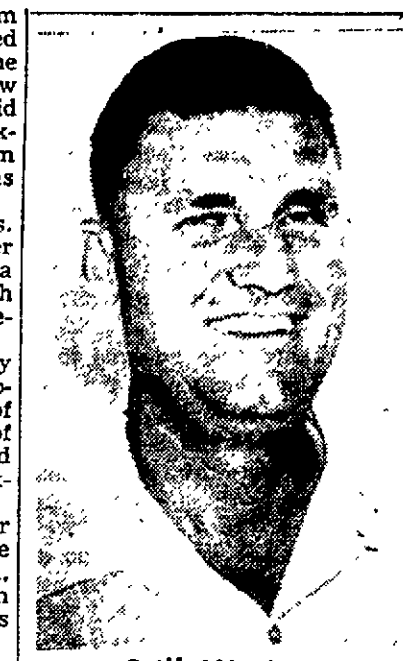

Mrs. Salley, a woman barber at Wakefield for nearly 25 years, was killed and two other persons were seriously injured when their car plunged off the highway and into a concrete box culvert.

Dixon County Sheriff Sam Curry said the three were trapped in the car for five hours. The car was hidden from the view of passing motorists. Curry said a son of Myron Osbar was walking home and heard moans from the two injured. Mrs. Salley was dead when the sheriff arrived.

Curry said the injured, Mrs. Cecil Borg of Wakefield and her daughter, Jane Audrey, 15, a freshman in Wakefield High School, were taken to a Wakefield hospital.

The sheriff said Mrs. Salley was driving the car when it apparently ran off the shoulder of Highway 9 about a mile south of the junction with Highway 20 and plunged down a 15-foot embankment.

Mrs. Salley learned the barber trade from her husband, the late O. D. Salley, in 1930 at Crofton, Neb. She started working with him in 1946 and took over his shop upon his death in 1952.

Still Missing

The search continues for Leo Goodhart, above, Humboldt, Neb., rancher who has been missing since leaving a Denver hotel Feb. 19. A $1,000 reward has been offered for information leading to the whereabouts of Goodhart. Law officers have advanced the theory that the Nebraskan may be an amnesia victim. 4 Luther Choir Members Hurt

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia. (AP) — Four members of the Luther Junior College choir in Wahoo, Neb., were injured in a car-truck collision two miles east of here on Highway 6.

Injured were: Kathryn Morton, 18, of Omaha; Elma Kuehner, 18, Diller, Neb.; Martha Smith, 20, Duluth, Minn.; and Dennis Johnson, 20, Pocahontas, Ia. Two other girls in the car were shaken up but not hospitalized.

Deputy Sheriff George Lindsay said the four were taken to a Council Bluffs hospital, then transferred to Immanuel Hospital in Omaha where all except Miss Morton were released.

Lindsay said the group were en route back to Wahoo after giving concerts in Iowa, including one in Spencer. The car driven by Johnson collided with a pickup truck driven by Carroll Lint, 25, Des Moines.

Scottsbluff Guard Armory Plans Are At Approval Stage

Plans for the proposed new National Guard armory at Scottsbluff are scheduled to go to Washington this week for approval by the National Guard bureau.

Maj. Gen. Guy Henninger will take the plans to the national capital on Thursday. They were prepared by Arthur A. Henke, Scottsbluff architect.

Henke goes to work on the plans for an armory at Gering as soon as he has finished with the Scottsbluff plans.

The Scottsbluff building, estimated to cost about $190,000, will be two stories in height and will house two reserve units as well as the guard. The Gering building will be smaller and only one story high.

Construction of the new Grand Island armory probably will begin within two weeks. The building may be started out this week.

C. C. Coursey, North Platte architect, began work Monday on plans for the new North Platte armory, and an Omaha firm, B. J. Baumann and associates, is working on plans for a new armory at Fremont.

Construction of the Hastings and Holdrege armories has progressed to the point where both are "above ground," according to Col. H. H. Turner, assistant adjutant general.

G.I. Resident Receives Second Personal Message From Rhee

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP) — Syngman Rhee, president of the Republic of South Korea, has outlined a plan for organizing anti-Communist societies in America and elsewhere in a letter to a Grand Island insurance man.

The personal letter was the second Delmar Mehring has received since he sent a message to Rhee last summer supporting his position regarding the armistice in the Korean fighting.

The two-page typewritten letter suggested forming local anti-Communist societies, recruiting new members, using every possible means "to rescue and re-educate those who have been deceived by Communist propaganda," and enlisting aid of mass communications media to spread word of the anti-Communist crusade.

"We should, I believe, deal with Communism as we would a contagious disease," Rhee wrote. "The only way to combat it effectively is to isolate and confine it and then eventually to eradicate it."

"Governments alone are helpless against the Communists unless the people provide united and informed support for an unceasing endeavor to expose and render harmless every single person who gives allegiance to the 'red cause,'" the letter continued.

The Korean president said he was starting the anti-Communist crusade "in the hope that it will develop into an international anti-Communist crusade. A number of East Asian countries and peoples are supporting us, and we hope that you, too, may start a similar movement where you are."

Two More Die In Crashes; '54 Toll At 60

By the Associated Press
Nebraska's highway fatality toll stands at 60 following two more deaths, one at Wood River and the other at Allen. This count compares with 31 fatalities at this time last year.

The latest victims:
Rudolph Gloe, 48, Wood River. Mrs. Flora Salley, about 50, Wakefield.

The Wood River man was killed Monday afternoon in a two-car collision at a county road intersection three and a half miles west and one and a quarter miles south of Wood River.

The car driven by Gloe was in collision with one driven by Roland Carlson of Grand Island. Carlson was taken to the Shelton Clinic.

Mrs. Salley, a woman barber at Wakefield for nearly 25 years, was killed and two other persons were seriously injured when their car plunged off the highway and into a concrete box culvert.

Dixon County Sheriff Sam Curry said the three were trapped in the car for five hours. The car was hidden from the view of passing motorists. Curry said a son of Myron Osbar was walking home and heard moans from the two injured. Mrs. Salley was dead when the sheriff arrived.

Curry said the injured, Mrs. Cecil Borg of Wakefield and her daughter, Jane Audrey, 15, a freshman in Wakefield High School, were taken to a Wakefield hospital.

The sheriff said Mrs. Salley was driving the car when it apparently ran off the shoulder of Highway 9 about a mile south of the junction with Highway 20 and plunged down a 15-foot embankment.

Mrs. Salley learned the barber trade from her husband, the late O. D. Salley, in 1930 at Crofton, Neb. She started working with him in 1946 and took over his shop upon his death in 1952.

Still Missing

The search continues for Leo Goodhart, above, Humboldt, Neb., rancher who has been missing since leaving a Denver hotel Feb. 19. A $1,000 reward has been offered for information leading to the whereabouts of Goodhart. Law officers have advanced the theory that the Nebraska man may be an amnesia victim. 4 Luther Choir Members Hurt

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia. (AP) — Four members of the Luther Junior College choir in Wahoo, Neb., were injured in a car-truck collision two miles east of here on Highway 6.

Injured were: Kathryn Morton, 18, of Omaha; Elma Kuehner, 18, Diller, Neb.; Martha Smith, 20, Duluth, Minn.; and Dennis Johnson, 20, Pocahontas, Ia. Two other girls in the car were shaken up but not hospitalized.

Deputy Sheriff George Lindsay said the four were taken to a Council Bluffs hospital, then transferred to Immanuel Hospital in Omaha where all except Miss Morton were released.

Lindsay said the group were en route back to Wahoo after giving concerts in Iowa, including one in Spencer. The car driven by Johnson collided with a pickup truck driven by Carroll Link, 25, Des Moines.

G.I. Resident Receives Second Personal Message From Rhee

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP) — Syngman Rhee, president of the Republic of South Korea, has outlined a plan for organizing anti-Communist societies in America and elsewhere in a letter to a Grand Island insurance man.

The personal letter was the second Delmar Mehring has received since he sent a message to Rhee last summer supporting his position regarding the armistice in the Korean fighting.

The two-page typewritten letter suggested forming local anti-Communist societies, recruiting new members, using every possible means "to rescue and re-educate those who have been deceived by Communist propaganda," and enlisting aid of mass communications media to spread word of the anti-Communist crusade.

"We should, I believe, deal with Communism as we would a contagious disease," Rhee wrote.

"The only way to combat it effectively is to isolate and confine it and then eventually to eradicate it."

"Governments alone are helpless against the Communists unless the people provide united and informed support for an unceasing endeavor to expose and render harmless every single person who gives allegiance to the 'red cause,'" the letter continued.

The Korean president said he was starting the anti-Communist crusade "in the hope that it will develop into an international anti-Communist crusade. A number of East Asian countries and peoples are supporting us, and we hope that you, too, may start a similar movement where you are."

Scottsbluff Guard Armory Plans Are At Approval Stage

Plans for the proposed new National Guard armory at Scottsbluff are scheduled to go to Washington this week for approval by the National Guard bureau.

Maj. Gen. Guy Henninger will take the plans to the national capital on Thursday. They were prepared by Arthur A. Hehnke, Scottsbluff architect.

Hehnke goes to work on the plans for an armory at Gering as soon as he has finished with the Scottsbluff plans.

The Scottsbluff building, estimated to cost about $190,000, will be two stories in height and will house two reserve units as well as the guard. The Gering building will be smaller and only one story high.

Construction of the new Grand Island armory probably will begin within two weeks. The building may be started out this week.

C. C. Coursey, North Platte architect, began work Monday on plans for the new North Platte Armory, and an Omaha firm, B. J. Backlund and associates, is working on plans for a new armory at Fremont.

Construction of the Hastings and Holdrege armories has progressed to the point where both are "above ground," according to Col. H. H. Turner, assistant adjutant general.

ULYSSES, Neb. — The new community building here will be just what the name implies. It was made possible through the efforts of the entire community of Ulysses and surrounding area. The community building will be opened for the first public events this spring or summer. The official opening awaits only the furnishing of interior equipment and a little redecoration.

The building itself has already been purchased by the Ulysses Community Club which sponsored the drive for the building. It formerly housed an implement company, and is located in the town's business section.

The club, headed by John Walsh, president, started the drive for funds to purchase the building last fall after an offer came from the owner of the building to sell the structure for only $5,500. Everyone pitched in to raise the money. Extension clubs got behind the drive. The American Legion donated $450. Individual businesses added to the purse.

The fund drive took the form of food and clothing sales, local talent skits and a full-fledged minstrel show which proved so popular that it was called back for a second performance at neighboring Staplehurst.

With the building purchased the fund drive is going into its final phases with an effort to finance furnishings for the building. A box social was held recently, and members of the club have other ideas in mind. As one member of the club said, "A building like this is good for a small community. It will be a fine thing for everyone to use." Formerly, he said, the club had planned to build a community hall, and the low price offered by the owner of the building was a stroke of great fortune for the club. "We never could have hoped to build that good a building for three times the amount we paid," the club member said.

Furnishings for the community building will include a kitchen. The main hall will be used for both dances and public meetings. The building was used as a skating rink.

Iowans Aid Wahoo Man, Crash Victim

STANTON, Ia. — The Rev. A. Leonard Smith of Wahoo, Neb., former pastor of Mamrelund Lutheran Church in Stanton, will benefit from a new club organized here.

About 30 businessmen have formed the "Two-Dollar-a-Month Club" to help provide medical care for the Rev. Mr. Smith who was injured in a street accident in Spencer, Ia., in 1951.

Chairman Herbert L. Honette said the group wasn't "formed for charity purposes but more for showing our appreciation for the Rev. Mr. Smith's 16 years of service to our local church."

The Rev. Mr. Smith left Stanton in 1950 to accept the pastorate of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church at Spencer. On Sept. 27, 1951, he was struck by a motorcycle while crossing a street in the Spencer business district.

Complications developed and he was forced to resign his pastorate about a year ago. The family moved to Wahoo, where he intended to stay before accepting another assignment.

Friends said the Rev. Mr. Smith is now semi-paralyzed. They added that his wife is serving as a waitress in a Wahoo cafe and enrolled in a commercial course at Luther Junior College.

Science Shrinks Piles

New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only 98¢ a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly.

Town-Wide Efforts At Ulysses Get Community Club

Star Farm Editor

ULYSSES, Neb. — The new community building here will be just what the name implies. It was made possible through the efforts of the entire community of Ulysses and surrounding area. The community building will be opened for the first public events this spring or summer. The official opening awaits only the furnishing of interior equipment and a little redecoration.

The building itself has already been purchased by the Ulysses Community Club which sponsored the drive for the building. It formerly housed an implement company, and is located in the town's business section.

The club, headed by John Walsh, president, started the drive for funds to purchase the brick building last fall after an offer came from the owner of the building to sell the structure for only $5,500. Everyone pitched in to raise the money. Extension clubs got behind the drive. The American Legion donated $450. Individual businesses added to the purse.

The fund drive took the form of food and clothing sales, local talent skits and a full-fledged minstrel show which proved so popular that it was called back for a second performance at neighboring Staplehurst.

With the building purchased the fund drive is going into its final phases with an effort to finance furnishing for the building. A box social was held recently, and members of the club have other ideas in mind.

As one member of the club said, "A building like this is good for a small community. It will be a fine thing for everyone to use." Formerly, he said, the club had planned to build a community hall, and the low price offered by the owner of the building was a stroke of great fortune for the club. "We never could have hoped to build that good a building for three times the amount we paid," the club member said.

The club bought the building from a Lincoln man, William C. Nelson.

Furnishings for the community building will include a kitchen. The main hall will be used for both dances and public meetings. The building was used as a skating rink.

Iowans Aid Wahoo Man, Crash Victim

STANTON, Ia. — The Rev. A. Leonard Smith of Wahoo, Neb., former pastor of Mamrelund Lutheran Church in Stanton, will be formed by the "Two-Dollar-a-Month Club" to help provide medical care for the Rev. Mr. Smith who was injured in a street accident in Spencer, Ia., in 1951.

Chairman Herbert L. Honette said the group wasn't "formed for charity purposes but more for showing our appreciation for the Rev. Mr. Smith's 16 years of service to our local church."

The Rev. Mr. Smith left Stanton in 1950 to accept the pastorate of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church at Spencer. On Sept. 27, 1951, he was struck by a motorcycle while crossing a street in the Spencer business district.

Complications developed and he was forced to resign his pastorate about a year ago. The family moved to Wahoo, where he intended to stay before accepting another assignment.

Friends said the Rev. Mr. Smith is now semi-paralyzed. They added that his wife is serving as a waitress in a Wahoo cafe and enrolled in a commercial course at Luther Junior College.

Lost Nebraska Flier Former Doane Student

Lincoln Star Special

VERDON, Neb. — Lt. James E. Bowers, 23, was aboard the U.S. Air Force C-47 which crashed Thursday in the Alps near Nice, France, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Bowers of Verdon.

They had received his information from his wife, the former Kay Smiley of Deadwood, S. D. Lt. and Mrs. Bowers were living in Bitburg, Germany. Lt. Bowers, a jet pilot, left Rome on the transport en route to Bitburg.

The Associated Press reported that bodies of four of the 20 victims of the crash were brought out Sunday, but the other 16 bodies were feared to have plunged 1,800 feet down an icy ravine entombed in the plane's shattered fuselage.

Lt. Bowers was a graduate of Verdon High School and had attended Doane College for two and one-half years. He had been in the Air Force since 1951, having served in Germany since September.

In addition to his wife and parents, he has a brother, John, also in the Air Force, and a sister, Julie, at home.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery!

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H. The price is only 95¢ a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly.

Firm Action Is Demanded At State Road Safety Meeting

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

"If there is a rabid dog in the area, Nebraskaans will demand that it be controlled. We must take the same firm action with the irresponsible driver of motor vehicles on our highways," Emil Hauge, Newman Grove, president of the State Press Association, told other members who attended the White House Safety Congress as they reported to Gov. Robert Crosby Monday.

The governor had called the 13 delegates to offer suggestions as to how traffic fatalities could be reduced in the state.

"It staggers me that fatalities have doubled in the state during the first two months of this year," the governor said. "We have a Safety Patrol of dedicated, devoted men and they are free of politics. They are small in numbers compared with the road mileage and the number serving other states. They can't do it alone."

Held Over

It was pointed out by the governor and other speakers that the fatalities on primary roads serviced by the patrol held their own last year with the previous year although traffic increased. The larger cities of the state showed a reduction.

The increase came on county roads and the governor stressed need of getting increased co-operation from sheriffs and their deputies. "I know one county that pays no attention to traffic law enforcement," the governor said.

Paul Hill, Denver, regional field director for the National Safety Council, said the patrol is only 50 per cent staffed as compared with other states and needs 100 additional men.

He urged that Nebraska adopt a state safety program that would cite needs and then work to correct those needs. He said that lay group organizations could be of great aid.

Hill pointed out that the state of Washington where a state program is being carried out reduced fatalities in January of this year to 22 as compared with 59 in January a year ago. "They have proved that it can be done," he said, but said a "crack-down" by enforcement officials and courts was necessary.

Paul Hill, Denver, regional field director for the National Safety Council, said the patrol is only 50 per cent staffed as compared with other states and needs 100 additional men.

He urged that Nebraska adopt a state safety program that would cite needs and then work to correct those needs. He said that lay group organizations could be of great aid.

Hill pointed out that the state of Washington where a state program is being carried out reduced fatalities in January of this year to 22 as compared with 59 in January a year ago. "They have proved that it can be done," he said, but said a "crack-down" by enforcement officials and courts was necessary.

Steering Committee

It was agreed that the group would act as a steering committee to plan and arrange for a statewide lay committee to coordinate the activities of groups now working for traffic safety and encourage new groups to organize.

Gov. Crosby will head the steering committee and urged that all statewide organizations send him the names of their safety chairmen.

Hill told the group of the various types of successful organizations in other states, particularly Minnesota, Colorado and Washington. He urged them not to so organize that groups presently doing good work would have an organization superimposed on them but rather to help the present programs being conducted locally.

He said that success would depend on getting away from generalities and "pinpoint" specific things. Then he explained a goal would be provided and progress could be noted. He said an inventory of needed changes would first be required.

Hill pointed out that in Nebraska at least five state agencies deal with the problem of safety and that top level leadership should co-ordinate their activities.

State Aid To Schools Total $26,886

State warrants totaling $26,886 have been sent to school districts in Nebraska which qualify for state financial aid due to enrollment of pupils whose parents are officers or enlisted men of the armed services on active duty in Nebraska and who reside on property acquired by the United States.

F. B. Decker, state superintendent of public instruction, announced that five school districts received this special financial aid for the first semester of the current school year. They are:

|--------------|-----------|
| Hastings | $ 738.00 |
| Omaha | 2,211.00 |
| Bellevue | 23,280.00 |
| Grand Island | 441.00 |
| Wahoo | 216.00 |

The aid is paid at the rate of $3.00 per week for elementary school pupils and $6.00 per week for high school pupils. The last previous payment of this state aid for schools was for the second semester of the 1952-53 school year, and the total was $17,103.90. Only five school districts which are now eligible to receive this state money received the aid in 1952-53.

1904-1954 50th ANNIVERSARY

The Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The multiplying electric power demands of Nebraska and other areas in the upper Missouri basin will receive a relieving outpouring of 1,500,000 kilowatts by 1960 from the vast multipurpose dams presently under construction on the Upper Missouri River, Col. Thomas J. Hayes, of the Omaha district of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers assured Nebraska REA directors here Monday.

Hayes appeared before the annual meeting of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association to draw a progress picture of the Missouri Basin development and to promise a measure of relief from threatened power shortage which he said, "will not come any too soon."

He said the six main stem dams which by 1955 will contribute 9.1 per cent of the 1,060,000 kw power requirement of the basin will by 1970 be contributing 17.7 per cent of a power requirement that will have more than doubled to 15,156,000 kw.

Power One Function

Hayes reminded, too, that electric power production will be but one function of the great integrated chain of dams. In their multi-purpose character they will serve as flood control units, irrigation reservoirs, recreation aids, navigation controls and recreation centers.

As electric power producers have a thumbnailed sketch of their progress through 1953. He said he Ft. Peck power plant had generated $2 million worth of power. Ft. Randall will reach full capacity in 1956 and will yield 10,300,000 worth of power annually. The Oahe plant is tentatively scheduled to start full generation capacity in 1963 producing $13,000,000 annually. Gavins Point Dam will be at capacity in late 1957 estimated to yield $3,070,000 in power annually. Garrison, another big earth dam under construction near Bismarck, N. D., began impounding water and will have power on the line in 1953. Big Bend, the sixth of the great chain of dams, is still in the planning stage. Like Oahe, it may not be producing power before late 1961.

Transmission Line

Hayes said Nebraska, where public power and rural electrification has outstripped its neighbor states, will require 188,000 kw of Missouri Basin power by 1956. But he reminded that presently only one transmission line (O'Neill to Randall) now exists to carry basin power. Its capacity is but 50,000 kw.

He noted that the most extensively developed public power state had only 40 miles of federal transmission lines. This is in contrast with Montana which has 875 miles, North Dakota which has 780 miles and South Dakota which has 1,250.

Hayes congratulated Nebraska, saying its energy and vision had brought electrification to between 80 and 90 per cent of the state's farms—one of the highest totals in the nation.

Nelsen Asks For Confidence

Anchor Nelsen, national administrator of REA, Monday pleaded for confidence in the "forward-looking, constructive" rural electrification policy of the Eisenhower administration. And he warned Nebraska's REA directors against "political pocket gophers" who have nothing good to offer the program, but are busy damaging it.

Nelsen asserted, "We have magnificent people in the REA. We want no politics of any description. We are determined that no one is going to disturb the REA program. We have the President's directive to improve the electrification and rural telephone program, and we mean to do it."

Cut Back Denied

The former Minnesota rural power leader and lieutenant governor spoke to some 200 REA directors at the Monday morning session of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association's annual meeting.

He said that declining budgets for REA did not mean a cutting back of the program.

"We are simply over the peak. The money requirements have been declining since 1949," he said.

"The record is that during the past year we processed 275 REA loans to 253 a year ago. We placed $136,000,000. A year ago the figure was $133,000,000."

Co-operation Needed

Nelsen protested criticism that was based on the quantity of money spent.

But he told the Nebraska directors that the REA co-ops could not do the whole job alone.

"We are going to have to learn to co-operate with industry and work with the private power companies. The job is too big for any one group. And we will all be better off learning to live and co-operate in peace," he said.

Nelsen called for a rational look at the future and advised co-operation wherever it will result in greatest efficiency and lowest cost to the user.

REAs Praised

However, he said his administration stood ready to lend money for power production where need was demonstrated and promised streamlining of loan procedures so that high level operating co-operatives could move with speed.

Nelsen praised the REA's, noting that where some years ago a 2 per cent delinquency was considered a good record today delinquency is down to .12 of a per cent.

Nelsen emphasized REA's rehabilitation program for co-operative telephone systems but warned that loans alone were not enough.

"It is imperative that we win industry with co-operation. We must have switching arrangements and toll outlets. Without them a telephone system is not a telephone system."

He told the Nebraska directors that all the answers were not in Washington.

"We have a higher purpose of maintaining the economic stability of America, of watching the dollar and applying the full amount of self-help," he said.

WE WISH WE KNEW

THE LINCOLN STAR

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 9

WISH SOMEONE would have a "true or false" quiz and settle this business of spring once and for all—We'd like to know if winter really has been deposited and this really is spring—or whether we shall be starting a couple of blizzards in the face in the not too distant future. There have been moments when we have sensed definite signs of spring fever as far as the town and its activities were involved—but fortunately those periods of lethargy have been just the way we like them—brief—and that leaves the question at hand still unanswered—

BUT WE'RE not too vitally concerned with winter or spring—We'll take any season and like it as long as it produces plenty of news, and whether the current morning belongs to spring or to winter—it's one of our favorites for it has news galore.

As is usual about this time of the year, we have news of homecomers—Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Gold, for instance, who returned on Saturday from the west coast—Mr. and Mrs. Gold spent considerable time in Palm Springs—were in Beverly Hills for several days, and stopped off in Las Vegas, Nev., on the way home.

ALSO JUST home from California are Mrs. W. H. Ferguson and Mrs. Richard D. Ferguson who arrived on Monday morning. The two Mrs. Ferguson sons spent five weeks in California, going first to Los Angeles where Mrs. Richard Ferguson was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Paul Shirley in Beverly Hills—However, the travelers spent only a portion of their time in Los Angeles—They neglected neither the south nor the north as far as the state was concerned and missed very little in between.

THEN there are the Swingles—Mr. and Mrs. Charles—who have returned from a holiday trip to Florida—with a flight to Cuba where they spent a brief time. Mr. and Mrs. Swingle returned on Friday after a month's absence.

AND back in town after a month's vacation are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Eichelberger and their two daughters, Jane and Sue, who went first to Washington D. C.—then to New York City, and from there to Florida from where they returned home.

THIS evening, so we heard, Mrs. Tom Davis will return from Washington, D. C. where she spent the past several days with Mr. Davis and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Davis.

UNDERSTAND that Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Hall of Kansas City, Mo., were in town the past week end—the house guests of Mrs. Hall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Coryell—Don't think you need reminding, but if you do—Mrs. Hall is the former Adele Coryell.

AND FROM Omaha on Sunday came Mrs. Aaron Levitt and her son, Tommy, who are remaining until later today, as the guests of Mrs. Levitt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Gold.

ALSO down from Omaha for a week end in Lincoln were Mr. and Mrs. John Macner of Omaha who were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Knudsen.

THIS IS the day that Mr. and Mrs. John Mason take off for Washington D. C. for a week's stay—For Mr. Mason the trip is more or less business—and we might add that the business has to do with his being admitted to the United States Supreme Court—with Mr. Mason on hand for the ceremony.

But we hear that there is to be a visit with the Lee Rankins—and a few treks around and about Washington.

NEXT Saturday is departure day for Mr. and Mrs. James Nicola who, with Mr. Nicola's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicola of Denver, will drive through the southwest—spending several days at Phoenix, Ariz., and other places of interest. We hear that the travel plans call for a stop at Las Vegas, Nev., en route home.

SOMEONE told us that Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wiedman, and their sons David and Larry, are all through with Offutt field and the air force, and now are just about settled in their new home at 1235 So. 37th.

ARRIVING from Sterling, Colo., later this week will be John V. Whitten who, on Sunday, will accompany Mrs. Whitten (Lois Guenzel), their son, Johnny, and their brand new daughter, Katherine Ann, back to their home in Sterling.

AND NOW its time to talk about some of our spring brides-elect—Miss Sue Gorton, for one, whose marriage to Michael Lawlor will take place in Tecumseh on April 3—

On Saturday evening Bruce Martin will be a dinner host when he honors Mr. Lawlor and the masculine members of the bridal party—But we hear that the beaux also are to bring their belles, so we don't believe it's unreasonable to assume that Miss Gorton also will be at the party.

BOTH Miss Gorton and her fiancé will be complimented on Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Walker Battey and their son, Robert Battey, will be hosts and hostess at an 11 o'clock brunch at their home. The guest list will include members of the families.

Saratoga PTA To Hear Talk

The members of Saratoga PTA will meet in the school auditorium Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Following the business meeting, a talk will be given by Robert Hamblet of the University of Nebraska department of physical education.

Girl Scouts Have Anniversary

The Lincoln Girl Scouts and Brownies, their leaders, parents and friends, attended a special program Monday evening in the Lincoln High School auditorium celebrating the 42nd national anniversary of Girl Scouting in America.

Miss Meredith Weatherlogg, Senior Scout, served as mistress of ceremonies for the program which was opened by group singing directed by Mrs. Eual Kerr with Mrs. John Brown as accompanist. Short talks were given by Sandra Reimers, who attended the Girl Scout archeological camp in New Mexico last summer, and by Sara Jones, one of four Nebraska Girl Scouts to attend the all-states camp at Cody, Wyo., last summer.

Low World Fellowship fund, honoring the founder of the Girl Scouts, were presented by troop representatives. Serving as color guards were members of junior high school troops.

Mrs. Ted Liggett, program chairman, presented 10 year pins to Mrs. C. B. Schultz, Mrs. Hoyt Hawke, Mrs. C. A. McCoy, Mrs. W. J. Turner and Mrs. W. E. Hartman, and five year membership pins to Mrs. Don Shurtleff, Mrs. J. F. Owens, Mrs. George Unhank, Mrs. Eugene Hulbert, Mrs. John Stransky and Mrs. A. C. Wehr.

The following Scouts received five year pins: Ruthann Chubbuck, Lana Sue Clough, Susanne Crabbe, Patty Miller, Marilyn Powers, Katherine Weir, Loretta Lintz, Mary

THE WAY MY FAMILY LIKES IT

Apparently the family does like it, for here we see Mrs. W. Irl Stebbins' two daughters, Mrs. Eugene A. Gessner and Mrs. Richard Knudsen, putting their talents to work on their mother's noted recipe for Chow Mein. While Mrs. Stebbins keeps it hot at buffet parties in one of the new handsome electric servers, Mrs. Gessner and Mrs. Knudsen prefer to use their chafing dishes. To round out the hearty meal, serve a tossed green salad, a light refreshing dessert and plenty of hot coffee.

CHOW MEIN

Cut 1 lb. round steak into cubes and saute the floured and seasoned meat until brown and very tender. (You may use a pressure cooker). Add 1 c. water and simmer. Cut up fine 1 bunch celery, 2 large onions, and one green pepper. Boil these ingredients in a very small amount of water for 15 min., adding 3 beef bouillon cubes. Combine with meat mixture. All 1 lb. fresh mushrooms, cut up, and sauteed slightly. 2 cans mixed Chinese vegetables, and 1 can bean sprouts. Add 1 t. bead molasses, or more until Chow mein is desired color. Thicken slightly.

Serves 6-8 people.

Ceremony At Tokyo

In the presence of a small group of friends, the marriage of Miss Lora Lee Clara Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilton Smith of Omaha, and Lieut. Frederick Joseph Novak Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Novak of Howells, was solemnized Sunday afternoon, Feb. 14, in the Haneda post chapel at Tokyo, Japan. The post chaplain, Major Hugh V. Parry, read the lines of the 4 o'clock service.

Lieut. Kathryn Sieller was the maid of honor and bride's only attendant, and serving Lieut. Novak as best man was Lieut. Dale Kirchenbauer.

For her wedding, the bride chose a waltz-length gown of Venice lace over taffeta in the dove gray shade. The floral pattern of the lace was traced with shell pink cording and silver metallic thread, and accenting the waist of the cap-sleeved bodice was a wide sash of pink and silver taffeta which ended in streamers extending to the hem of the flaring skirt.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held at the Officers Club after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Mt. Fuji, Japan.

Lieut. and Mrs. Novak will reside in Tokyo where the bridegroom is serving with the Air Force at the International Air Port hospital. A graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry, he is a member of Delta Sigma Delta

Today's Artist

PETER BLUME

One of the popular favorites at the Nebraska Art Association spring show is "The Italian Straw Hat," an oil, done by Peter Blume, a 48-year-old artist who was born in Russia, but who was educated at the Art Students League, and the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris. Blume undoubtedly is one of the virtuoso technicians of our times, and an artist who usually has had something to say in a social fashion. In the "Italian Straw Hat" we find him in a more modest mood. The message of the painting has nothing to do with social comment, but only with the problems of space, the contrast of an enclosed room seen at very close hand with every detail clearly defined, plus three vistas into deep space, open and undefined.

Consolidation Of 3 Schools Approved

Consolidation of three Lincoln County elementary districts near Malcolm, which are ready consolidated into a high school district, has been approved by the State School Reorganization Committee.

Merger of Districts 64, 100 and 101 into one Class II district (elementary and high school grades) as asked by the districts' voters.

Enrollment of the three grade schools is about 45 students with a total number in the Malcolm high school.

Existing facilities in Malcolm will house the consolidated district. No buses are planned by the consolidated district as the three live beyond the three-mile limit.

Following state committee approval, the next step will be the action of a new consolidated district school board, which will place the high school and three elementary district boards, probably at the close of the current school term.

Marsh Seeks Post Again

Secretary of State Frank Marsh filed Monday for re-election.

Marsh, a Republican, was the first from either party to file this year for the nomination for secretary of state.

He is 29, a World War II infantry veteran, and was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1950. He now is serving his first term in the office which his father held for 16 years.

Marsh is married and has four children. He belongs to various veterans' organizations.

Strunk's Name Enters Governor Race Speculation

Harry D. Strunk said in Lincoln Monday that he had been approached about being a candidate for governor. Strunk, McCook newspaper publisher, is a long-time advocate of conservation of natural resources in the state.

He declined to commit himself as to his intentions. He told a reporter:

"I might be—although I have never been politically minded and have never run for a political position."

Strunk is known throughout the state as an independent in politics and the promoter of the West's natural resources.

Many Times

"I have been approached many times in the past to try to assume such a responsibility but I never yet have felt that I was qualified or had the time to do justice to such a position," Strunk said in a statement.

"I am not now saying that I will or won't because this came as a total surprise to me and any decision I may make will come after I have had time to think it over and consult with my family and a few close friends."

"I do sincerely feel that the time has come when sacrifices are going to have to be made if this country survives the challenges before it such as the attempted assassination of our representatives in Congress last week," he continued.

Dean Couldn't Stop At 'Name, Rank, Serial Number'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean testified Monday he himself lacked the "intelligence or strength" to live up to the military ideal and tell his Communist captors nothing but his name, rank and serial number.

The 54-year-old general, for three years a war prisoner in Korea, appeared at a military court of inquiry as a witness for Col. Frank Schwabe, Marine flyer who falsely "confessed" to germ warfare under Communist pressure.

Dean withheld his personal views on the conduct of Schwabe, who may face a court martial if the four-member inquiry court rules against him. The court also can recommend no charges be filed.

Would Carry Poison

Under questioning Dean testified that if he ever went to war again he would carry poison to swallow if he were captured—as to avoid giving military information to the enemy.

Dean said he would have welcomed death during his gruelling captivity. He told a story he's told before—that he once tried to commit suicide to avoid talking, since the thing he most feared was that under physical torture he might expose U. S. military secrets.

Schwabe's counsel, Col. Paul B. Sherman, asked if it is realistic to expect a captured officer to stick to the Geneva convention on treatment of war prisoners. This requires a prisoner to give only his name, rank and serial number.

"There has to be a dividing line," Dean replied, "and that's as good a line as any. It's the ideal we should strive for; the Communists won't stop (their questioning) anywhere."

"Do you believe it possible for anyone to stop after giving name, rank and serial number?" Sherman persisted.

"It is hard for me to judge others," said Dean. "I didn't have the intelligence or strength to stop there."

Dean said he did refuse to broadcast for the Communists or to tell them where South Korean President Rhee could be found.

Dean said he did not consider his own interrogations as torture, even though one session lasted 68 hours. He said he always had access to medical care and got food as good as his captors got.

He said he did not fear the constant questioning would break him down but did fear torture might.

2 Minutemen File For State School Board

Two Minutemen, Neb., men filed Monday for the Sixth District nomination for the State Board of Education.

Actual Value Dealer Assessment Meant By New Motor Vehicle Law—Chambers

Guy C. Chambers of Lincoln, attorney for the Nebraska New Car Dealers Association, declared Monday he believes Nebraska's new motor vehicle tax law intends cars owned by dealers should be assessed at actual value.

Chambers took exception to an attorney general's opinion issued last week on this and other questions about the new law asked by Adams County Attorney Richard Hunter of Hastings.

The attorney general held that vehicles should be assessed in accordance with the schedule of values fixed by the State Board of Equalization.

In a letter to C. G. Rose of Hastings, president of the association, Chambers said:

"I am certain that the law means that such vehicles shall be assessed at their actual value."

Chambers said he would recommend that on or before April 20 dealers report all vehicles on hand, listing each vehicle separately and assigning to each its actual value as merchandise.

This procedure would put the dealer in a position to make a claim for credit on the tax upon transfer of the vehicle in the event the attorney general's position that dealers are not entitled to such refunds should be rejected.

Chambers also advised the dealers that if the board raises the values the dealer assigns to any vehicles the dealer must appear before the County Board of Equalization and Assessment when it meets commencing the first Monday in May.

"If the county board of equalization fails to value the vehicle at its actual value as merchandise, the dealer may appeal to the court," he said.

He recommended that the dealers be prepared to confront the county board with evidence of what prices actually are being paid for new and used cars.

In his opinion last week, Attorney General C. S. Beck said the Legislature specifically eliminated the provision which would have entitled dealers to refunds upon transfer of vehicles in their inventory.

The new car dealers take the position that this amounts to double taxation.

Lincoln Ready For Busy State Tourney Week

Three NU Gridders Promoted

By NORRIS ANDERSON
Sports Editor, The Star

Fundamentals in double portions were served the Nebraska Cornhuskers Monday by Coach Bill Glassford as spring grid drills swung into the second week.

Once again, the skies smiled on the Huskers and they whipped through their fourth straight outdoor session.

"All of the boys are working hard," commented Glassford. "It's pretty early to single out any standouts."

Along with the brisk spirit shown on the drill yard, the Husker coach was celebrating another event. The day marked Mentor Glassford's 40th birthday.

In this setting, three candidates moved up the ladder.

Fullback Jim Yeisley, two-year letterman from Coon, Ia., moved to the second team. Don Comstock, Scottsbluff sophomore, jumped to the No. 2 backfield at left halfback. Mark Loncar of North Platte, a transfer from Denver University, was at the No. 3 center post.

"These early shakeups won't mean much, however," explained Glassford. "We are still testing everyone to see who plays best."

Two ends were on the sick list. Don Hewitt, junior from Sioux Falls, S. D., has the flu. Ted Westervelt, Scottsbluff sophomore, was also at the Student Health Center for observation.

Hewitt and Andy Lohr, Turtle Creek, Pa., senior, were listed at the wings on the No. 1 team. The rest of the eleven included Bill Holmstrom and Rex Evans, tackles; Don Vasey, center; Jack Fischer, quarterback; Rex Williams, left halfback; Willie Green, right halfback; and Bob Smith, fullback.

Anti-Brewery Bill Delayed To March 18

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate judiciary committee Monday postponed to March 18 a public hearing on a bill which would have the effect of preventing a brewery from owning a professional baseball team.

The subcommittee reported they requested a postponement until after the opening of the major league season on April 13, but the hearing was reset for March 18.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Nebraska Wesleyan's Plainsmen hit 10 points in an overtime session Monday to defeat the Whitworth Pirates of Spokane, Wash., 58-54, in the opening game of the National Intercollegiate (NAIA) Basketball Tournament.

The Plainsmen's next action will be Wednesday when they play the winner of one of the Tuesday games of the opposite bracket.

Jim Lightbody and Foster McGuire scored the telling buckets for Wesleyan in the extra five minutes after the score had been deadlocked 48-48 at the end of regulation time.

Lightbody scored 17 points for the Nebraskaans but top honors went to Whitworth's Phil Jordan, who got 21.

It was a rugged test for Wesleyan which was gaining its 18th victory of the season against 4 losses. Whitworth, suffering its fourth defeat against 21 victories, led 15-14 at the quarter and was behind only two points, 31-33, at the half.

SEATTLE (AP)—The University of Washington hired Iowa State's former football coach, Emmet (Abe) Stuber Monday to help round out its coaching staff.

Athletic director Harve Cassell announced that Stuber, who had led the Iowa State post seven years until his retirement after last season, had agreed to a one-year contract as backfield coach. Terms were not disclosed.

Stuber will succeed Lou Saban on Coach John Cherberg's Washington staff. Saban has accepted a Northwestern University offer.

Red Sox Pitchers Limit Yanks To Trio Of Hits

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Three Boston pitchers held the champion New York Yankees to three hits at Al Lang field Monday as the Red Sox slipped through to their second successive 2-1 victory in the Grapefruit League.

Rookie Del (Red) Norwood, Russ Kemmerer and Ike Delock gave out a hit each with the only Yankee run scored at the expense of Norwood when a pair of walks sandwiched around a hit by Jerry Coleman loaded the bases for Bob Cerv's sacrifice fly.

Norwood was returned the winner when the Red Sox jumped on loser Bob Kuzava for two unearned runs in the third inning.

Jimmy Piersall, who retired from the game in the fifth inning with a muscle pull on the back of his right shoulder, singled and went to second when Joe Collins missed an attempted pick off.

Strong, Even Fields To Open Play Wednesday

By BILL FITZGERALD
Star Sports Staff Member

Hotel managers were opening their doors and janitors were polishing the Coliseum Monday in anticipation of the human avalanche which will strike the Capital City this week.

Some teams and their supporters are expected today. Less than 24 hours later some of them will be leaving town after defeats in the Nebraska State Basketball Tournament.

Others will be drawing quick breaths, grabbing a bite of food and hustling back to the University basketball courts to scout next opponents of their victorious teams.

Most distant visitor but no stranger to Lincoln or the Coliseum will be Chadron Prep, one of the powers in Class C and expected to be in the semifinals Friday. The Junior Eagles from Dawes County in the high northwest will be after a third title in five years.

Prep plays Newman Grove Wednesday afternoon following the opening performance of Syracuse, a Lincoln neighbor, against Hartington from Cedar County on the Dakota border.

Class C will stage one of the best title battles in years. Franklin and Syracuse are undefeated while Prep and Geneva have heavy backing. Wood River and neighboring Seward, Tecumseh from the southeast, undefeated Loup City or Minden could wreck another excellent Tutor team.

Seward is matched against Minden in the final game of the first night on the varsity court. The contest could send the crowd away with the willies. Both clubs have fine records against strong competition.

The heavy travelers in B are Gordon and Mitchell.

University athletes again will toss apples, ice cream bars and candy to all corners of the vast Coliseum. Pop Klein again will direct the traffic in edibles.

Starting time Wednesday is 12:30 with Class C and Class B opening the state's best show of the sports year.

Ex-Coach Defends Irish Tactics

Frank Leahy Blasts Big 10, NCAA

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Leahy, who retired as Notre Dame football coach at the end of the 1953 season, lashed out at the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Monday while defending feigned injuries and shift plays in a magazine article.

The article is titled "Farewell to Notre Dame."

Leahy, admitting that the controversial Notre Dame injuries in the Iowa game last fall were feigned, said that such practices have been a part of football for many years. The controversy, he said, "was caused not by what was done but by who did it and how successfully."

This also applies to the 1952 "sucker" shift controversy. If Notre Dame hadn't been able to score after using such ruses, they would have gone unnoticed, Leahy said.

Leahy also charged that some Big Ten colleges had influenced the NCAA when Notre Dame was censured last year for giving tryouts to prospective recipients of athletic scholarships. He said the NCAA should be more concerned with the more serious abuses in football—giving athletes money or gifts under the table and neglecting education.

"I will emphasize here my conviction that the NCAA's public censuring of Notre Dame was inspired principally by some of the representatives from a block of the more affluent members of the Western Conference," Leahy's article said.

"These righteous personalities frequently commit football sins more grievous by far than tryouts. Yet, they have sought to steer the policies not only of their own conference but of the NCAA, and have in a considerable measure succeeded. They have long resented Notre Dame's dominant position in football and, more recently, Michigan State's. Michigan State also was censured publicly for tryouts."

"Instead of publicly censuring Michigan State and Notre Dame, the NCAA ought to concern itself not only with the real abuses but with the real threat to the college game from the professionals. While the college presidents, who control the NCAA (with the help of the Western Conference), are eliminating or restricting tryouts, two-platoon, scholarships and spring drills—and thus reducing the quality of the game and its attractiveness—the pros are doing everything to make their game more attractive."

The NCAA, Moore said, "acted impartially and fairly on the facts and in no sense was it motivated by any prejudice." He added that the rule barring tryouts had been on the NCAA books for several years and was well understood.

Disputes Leahy

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Dr. A. B. Moore, president of the Nationalist Collegiate Athletic Association, denied Monday that the NCAA was influenced "by anything but the facts" in censuring Notre Dame.

Moore, dean of the graduate school at the University of Alabama here, made the assertion in answer to charges by ex-Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy that affluent Big Ten members inspired the censure of the South Bend school.

The NCAA, Moore said, "acted impartially and fairly on the facts and in no sense was it motivated by any prejudice." He added that the rule barring tryouts had been on the NCAA books for several years and was well understood.

Chiefs' Field Gets $2,300

Sherman Field will be improved to the extent of $2,300 for the coming baseball season with money from the city's contingency fund.

The City Council approved the use of the money upon recommendation of its two-member committee of Councilmen Pat Ash and Joseph E. Fenton. The money, said Ash, will be used mainly for sodding and drainage.

The Council, reminded Ash, anticipated at the last budget making sessions that the Lincoln Civic Baseball Association would be granted some funds for improvements to the field if any money was available. With the $2,300 allocation, he said, the contingency fund will still have an unencumbered balance of $13,045.

Among the items making up the total $28,314 fund balance at this time are $8,000 for a special city election and $6,000 for the hiring of a new administrative assistant.

Counting his exhibition matches, Jack Dempsey scored more than 60 one-round knockouts.

Hilltoppers, Niagara To NIT Semis

NEW YORK (INS)—Second-seeded Western Kentucky and fourth-seeded Niagara University gained the semi-finals of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament Monday night at Madison Square Garden.

The sharp-shooting Hilltoppers raced over Bowling Green's flashy Falcons, 95-81, in a record-smashing performance which erased two Garden scoring marks.

Niagara's Eagles got by a scrappy Dayton quintet, 77-74, in a hard fought quarterfinal which went right down to the wire.

St. Francis of Loretta, Pa., opened the tripleheader by completing the first round with an 81-68 triumph over Brigham Young.

The Niagara-Dayton windup was in sharp contrast to the run away which Western Kentucky scored over Bowling Green. The Flyers, paced by their two big men, six-foot-eleven Bill Uhl and six-eight John Horan, battled the favored Eagles to the final buzzer.

Niagara made up for what it lacked with sensational speed and springy-legged and accurate shooting operators in Bo Erias, Charlie Hoxie and Ed Fleming.

Huskers' Johnson 2nd In Big Seven

Bill Johnson, senior Nebraska center, finished the season in second place in Big Seven scoring.

The 6-foot-7-inch Teachers High graduate wound up with 245 points for an average of 20.42 in 12 conference games. Only Colorado's Don Halderson (256 and 21.33) finished ahead of Johnson.

Nebraska City Soph Gets First Numeral

George Peterson, a sophomore at Nebraska City High, is the first University of Nebraska blue numeral winner of the year.

Coach Ed Weir of the Huskers has awarded Peterson a numeral for his feat of running the 100-yard dash in :10.02, the 220 in :23.1 and broadjumping 18 feet.

They've Got Their Ticket For The Big One

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Member
Those po' lil' boys from Northeast have got downright mean lately.

We mean Coach Ed Johnson's Northeast basketball team. Once rated a pushover, the Rockets have been knocking over strong teams recently. Northeast won a berth in the state tournament by beating Falls City last week, giving Lincoln a strong representative in the state tourney. The team is coached by Ed Johnson, who has been in the state tourney for the last three years. The team is coached by Ed Johnson, who has been in the state tourney for the last three years. The team is coached by Ed Johnson, who has been in the state tourney for the last three years.

At the start of the season the Rockets, short and inexperienced, were pushovers. They lost to North Platte, Falls City and Columbus.

But now, under the tutelage of Johnson, the Rockets have become a team to be reckoned with. Note this fact:

Northeast has played five of the seven other teams in the state tourney. Of the five, Northeast has beaten four!

An example of the improvement made by the Rockets is their play in the district tourney at Wesleyan where they had return matches with three regular-season opponents.

During the season they beat Nebraska City, 67-49. In the tournament they defeated the Pioneers, 57-39.

During the season they lost to Falls City, 54-44. During the tournament they beat Falls City, 62-51.

During the season, they lost a stinging 68-40 decision to Lincoln High. In the tournament they went into the last half-minute of play neck-and-neck with Lincoln before losing out, 47-44.

Lincoln is one of the five state tournament teams the Rockets played. Others are Fremont, Boys Town, Hastings and Scottsbluff.

During the season Northeast beat Fremont, 63-52; Boys Town, 59-55; Hastings, 64-60; and Scottsbluff, 47-37.

That's winning when the chips are down. Northeast has had its share of blue-chip victories this year and has also lost some close ones.

A sizerup of the team reveals the secret of what makes the Rockets go—balance, fair speed and a good bench developed during the season.

Rich Baker, a 6-4 senior center, is the tallest member of the squad and the only Rocket player over six feet tall. His defensive work was outstanding in the district tournament.

Dick Beachell, a 5-11 junior forward, is like Baker a football player. He played in 14 of the Rockets' 15 regular-season games and is a dependable point-producer when called off the bench.

Ron Bradsby is another 5-11 junior forward who doubles as a football player. He was bothered early by an appendectomy which caused him to miss part of the football season.

Larry Bryant is another junior who played football for the Rockets. He stands 5-10 and came off

Kentucky Again Voted No. 1 Basketball Team In Country

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's basketball experts gave unbeaten Kentucky another vote of confidence Monday as the No. 1 college team in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Adolph Rupp's Wildcats got the definite nod over second place Indiana, the defending NCAA champion, Duquesne, on the road back after a lost weekend 10 days ago when two straight defeats followed 22 victories, pulled up into third place.

Nine of the top 10 are engaged in tournaments this week. The only exception will be determined tonight when Kentucky and Louisiana State (No. 8) meet at Nashville in a single game playoff for the Southeastern Conference title. LSU also was unbeaten in the conference. The winner moves into the Eastern Regional NCAA Tournament at Iowa City starting Friday.

The leading teams (first place)

Kid Breezes Past Minelli

BOSTON (AP)—Welterweight king Kid Gavilan breezed through the final tuneup for his April 2 shot at Bobo Olson's middleweight boxing crown tonight with a unanimous decision over Livio Minelli of Italy in a non-title 10-rounder at Boston Garden. Gavilan weighed 153½, Minelli 152½.

The Cuban Keed dropped Minelli twice for mandatory eight-counts in the second round with snappy left hooks to the head. He had Minelli bleeding from the nose intermittently from the first round.

Jones Upsets Bobby Dykes

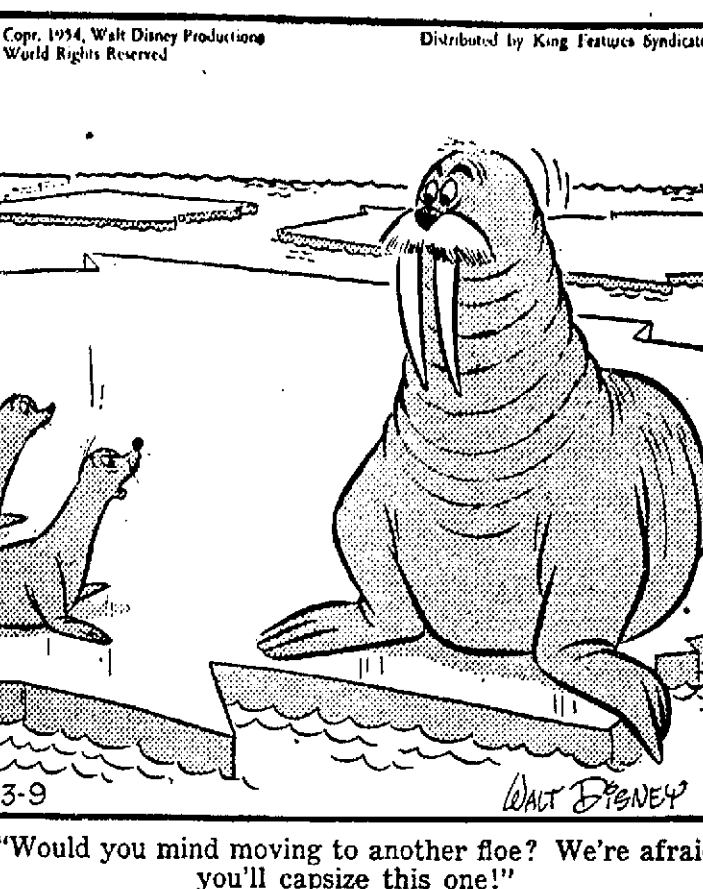

BROOKLYN (AP)—Ralph (Tiger) Jones, Yonkers, N. Y., a 2-1 underdog, came from behind Monday night to stop Bobby Dykes of Italy in 2:12 of the tenth and last round of a stirring scrap at Eastern Parkway arena. Dykes weighed 159, Jones 157.

The 25-year-old Yonkers, N. Y., Negro, who had taken a severe beating from the third through seventh rounds, floored the fifth-ranked middleweight contender twice for nine-counts with two tremendous rights in the final round.

Ted Lyons, new coach for the Brooklyn Dodgers, is a graduate of Baylor University.

Wayne Hester, the only sophomore on the club, is a six-footer and has a bright future if he continues to play the way he has after joining the varsity in mid-season. A deadly set shot, he hit his peak with 19 points in the "must" win over Falls City in the district tourney.

John Douthit, a transfer from Ord, is perhaps better known as a top football quarterback prospect for next season but he played in six basketball games this season.

Submitted by King L. A. Jones, Bradenton, Fla.

YUMA, Ariz. (P)—Calm and courage paid off Monday for two young sisters who wandered from a picnic and became stranded at night on a canyon ledge.
From dusk until after sunup Carla Meyer, 12, and her 9-year-old sister, Jean, waited patiently for help to come.
"We weren't scared," said Carla.
Chilled, Tired
They were sighted first by Kenneth Hansberger, who with his wife had taken the Meyer girls on the picnic.
Chilled and tired but in good condition, they were carried to safety by sheriff's deputies who had combed Palm Canyon, a rugged chasm 70 miles north of here, all night long.
A helicopter from March Air Force Base, Calif., also was used in the search. Two others turned back after the rescue had been made.
Sheriff Jim Washum praised the way the girls reacted to their plight. "They are smart girls," he said.

Donald Duck apparently got lost in his flight to Lincoln. But we hope he'll arrive soon for future issues.
"They stayed put during the night and that probably saved their lives. If they had wandered around they might have fallen 1,000 feet."
Helping in the search was the lost girl's father, Arnold Meyer, a Yuma automobile mechanic. Their younger sister, Beverly, 7, remained with the Hansbergers when Carla and Jean slipped off to explore the canyon just before night fall.
Home To Rest
As soon as they realized the girls were lost, the Hansbergers and a companion, Jean Lenz, hurried back to Yuma to report the situation.
Meanwhile, the girls, dressed only in shirts and slacks, wandered until it became too dark to go farther.
Carla said they slept most of the chilly night.
"We could see your campfire and headlights," she told Sheriff Washum Monday morning.

Two Young Sisters Are Rescued From Canyon Ledge

YUMA, Ariz. (P)—Calm and courage paid off Monday for two young sisters who wandered from a picnic and became stranded at night on a canyon ledge.

From dusk until after sunup Carla Meyer, 12, and her 9-year-old sister, Jean, waited patiently for help to come.

"We weren't scared," said Carla.

Chilled, Tired They were sighted first by Kenneth Hansberger, who with his wife had taken the Meyer girls on the picnic.

Chilled and tired but in good condition, they were carried to safety by sheriff's deputies who had combed Palm Canyon, a rugged chasm 70 miles north of here, all night long.

A helicopter from March Air Force Base, Calif., also was used in the search. Two others turned back after the rescue had been made.

Sheriff Jim Washum praised the way the girls reacted to their plight. "They are smart girls," he said.

Donald Duck apparently got lost in his flight to Lincoln. But we hope he'll arrive soon for future issues.

"They stayed put during the night and that probably saved their lives. If they had wandered around they might have fallen 100 feet."

Helping in the search was the lost girls' father, Arnold Meyer, a Yuma automobile mechanic. Their younger sister, Beverly, 7, remained with the Hansbergers when Carla and Jean slipped off to explore the canyon just before night fall.

Home To Rest As soon as they realized the girls were lost, the Hansbergers and a companion, Jean Lensh, hurried back to Yuma to report the situation.

Meanwhile, the girls, dressed only in shirts and slacks, wandered until it became too dark to go farther.

Carla said they slept most of the chilly night.

"We could see your campfire and headlights," she told Sheriff Washum Monday morning.

James Estes Fined for Bootlegging

Police said an investigation of the premises disclosed no other evidence of whiskey. They said also that there is, to date, little evidence of widespread activity in bootlegging in Lincoln.

Main Responsibility For Listing Property Rests With Taxpayer

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

What are the duties of the assistant assessor and the property owner relative to the return of property for assessment?

The State Tax Commissioner's 1954 Assessors' Handbook answers the question this way:

For the citizen—"Nebraska has a self-assessment law. The responsibility for listing his property rests primarily upon the taxpayer. He should also be required to value his property, except those items upon which uniform values have been agreed upon, by the Assessors' Association."

For the assistant assessor—"His job is to help the citizens to make his return correctly, to advise him of uniform values that have been adopted, and to check his return to see that all questions are answered, all property listed, and that the oath is administered."

Printed Instructions
To assist both the taxpayer and assistant assessor, Lancaster County Assessor Arthur Davis has again prepared a sheet of printed instructions.

These instructions are an aid to the property owner who desires to fill out his own personal property schedule, although Davis urges the owner to avail himself of the services of an assistant assessor to avoid mistakes that are commonly made. While the instructions caution to list dollars only and not cents, some self-prepared schedules every year have a "whopping" evaluation because the additional cent figures were used.

All motor vehicles not licensed must be listed as personal property on the schedule. This includes trailer homes, also.

That is, any motor vehicles, trailers, or trailer homes owned on March 10 and which have not been assessed under the "pay as you go" vehicle tax law, the tax paid, and the vehicle licensed, must be declared as personal property on the 1954 schedule and are subject to an ad valorem tax. List all property at actual value; the tax on tangible property will be figured at 50 per cent of the total value listed by the assessor's office.

Owners of stock shares should list only the names, number, and type (common or preferred) of

Depreciation Table
Last on the instructions is a depreciation table for evaluating household goods and personal equipment.

This table prepared by a Business Assessment Co-ordinating Committee has been adopted by the Tax Commissioner for individual property.

Based on new cost price, the table allows 40 per cent depreciation the first and second years of use, 50 per cent the third and fourth years; 60 per cent the fifth and sixth; 74 per cent the seventh and eighth, and over eight years, 80 per cent.

While the law prescribes that property shall be listed at its actual value which is defined as "value in the market in the ordinary course of trade," many items do not have a readily ascertainable value in the market, the handbook declares.

Since all items must be valued, the use of Depreciation Tables have a practical place in the assessment program, it continues. "As a matter of law they can only be considered as suggested guides and cannot have the effect of being mandatory."

Same Table Vital
Although it is readily conceded all items do not depreciate at the same rate, theoretically, a high degree of equalization is obtained between schedules if all persons use the same table.

Although business schedules, for convenience, may use Schedule F

of the Federal Internal Revenue Code, the property may not be depreciated beyond 80 per cent for state-county taxes, according to Davis.

This is the approved depreciation scale for household goods, personal and household equipment:

Main Responsibility For Listing Property Rests With Taxpayer

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

What are the duties of the assistant assessor and the property owner relative to the return of property for assessment?

The State Tax Commissioner's 1954 Assessors' Handbook answers the question this way:

For the citizen—"Nebraska has a self-assessment law. The responsibility for listing his property rests primarily upon the taxpayer. He should also be required to value his property, except those items upon which uniform values have been agreed upon by the Assessors' Association."

For the assistant assessor—"His job is to help the citizens to make his return correctly, to advise him of uniform values that have been adopted, and to check his return to see that all questions are answered, all property listed, and that the oath is administered."

Printed Instructions

To assist both the taxpayer and assistant assessor, Lancaster County Assessor Arthur Davis has again prepared a sheet of printed instructions.

These instructions are an aid to the property owner who desires to fill out his own personal property schedule, although Davis urges the owner to avail himself of the services of an assistant assessor to avoid mistakes that are commonly made.

While the instructions caution to list dollars only and not cents, some self-prepared schedules every year have a "whopping" evaluation because the additional cent figures were used.

All motor vehicles not licensed must be listed as personal property on the schedule. This includes trailer homes, also.

That is, any motor vehicles, trailers, or trailer homes owned on March 10 and which have not been assessed under the "pay as you go" vehicle tax law, the tax paid, and the vehicle licensed, must be declared as personal property on the 1954 schedule and are subject to an ad valorem tax.

List all property at actual value; the tax on tangible property will be figured at 50 per cent of the total value listed by the assessor's office.

Owners of stock shares should list only the names, number, and type (common or preferred) of

Depreciation Table

Last on the instructions is a depreciation table for evaluating household goods and personal equipment.

This table prepared by a Business Assessment Co-ordinating Committee has been adopted by the Tax Commissioner for individual property.

Based on new cost price, the table allows 40 per cent depreciation the first and second years of use, 50 per cent the third and fourth years; 60 per cent the fifth and sixth; 74 per cent the seventh and eighth, and over eight years, 80 per cent.

While the law prescribes that property shall be listed at its actual value which is defined as "value in the market in the ordinary course of trade," many items do not have a readily ascertainable value in the market, the handbook declares.

Since all items must be valued, the use of Depreciation Tables have a practical place in the assessment program, it continues.

"As a matter of law they can only be considered as suggested guides and cannot have the effect of being mandatory."

Same Table Vital

Although it is readily conceded all items do not depreciate at the same rate, theoretically, a high degree of equalization is obtained between schedules if all persons use the same table.

Although business schedules, for convenience, may use Schedule F

of the Federal Internal Revenue Code, the property may not be depreciated beyond 80 per cent for state-county taxes, according to Davis.

This is the approved depreciation scale for household goods, personal and household equipment:

| New Cost | 1st year | 2nd year | 3rd year | 4th year | 5th year | 6th year | 7th year | 8th year | 9th year | 10th year | over 10 years |
